Nixon To Cut Staff

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon plans a thorough overhaul of the White House staff and will abolish such time-honored posts as press secretary and appointments secretary, aides announced today.

Word of the "restructuring" of the White House inner circle was disclosed by H. R. "Bob" Haldeman, a 42-year-old Los Angeles advertising executive who was named today as one of Nixon's White House assistants.

Haldeman said the White House hierarchy in the Nixon administration probably will include no more than three or four assistants at the highest level. He said these appointees would act more or less as chiefs of staff to the president.

On the next rung down the ladder, there will be a number of special assistants who will handle such matters as press relations and presidential appointments.

A vice president of J. Walter Thompson Co., Haldeman will involve himself primarily with general administrative matters, including management of the White House staff. He will have supervision over presidential appointments—in other words, the daily schedule—but the detail work will be carried out by a subordinate.

Haldeman predicted Nixon's staff would be smaller than those of recent presidents and will certainly be one of the youngest in point of age.

Nixon also has appointed Bryce N. Harlow as a presidential assistant.

Nixon announced Tuesday that he was naming Harlow, 52, to be one of several presidential assistants. Harlow, an in-and-out government man since World War II, will specialize in "management of legislation and Congressional affairs."

In the administrations of the late John F. Kennedy and President Dwight Johnson, the highest ranking White House staffers have carried the title of special assistants along with the maximum authorized salary of $30,000 a year.

Apollo Flight Has Less Room For Mistakes

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 8 launch team and astronauts, given the "go" to shoot for the moon at Christmas, stepped up preparations here today knowing they have less room for mistakes than on any previous manned space venture.

"My own mental outlook," observed an executive with North American Rockwell Corp., prime Apollo spaceship builder, "is that in the past, as we loaded propellants and got spaceships ready to fly, there has always been that little thing in the back of your mind that says you can bring the astronauts back to earth quickly if something goes wrong."

Preparing for a flight around the moon, however, when the Apollo-crew could be three or more days away from earth if trouble were to develop, "the outlook is different," said Bastian Hello, vice president and general manager of launch operations for North American's space division here.

"The name of the game this time is to give them every ounce of energy you can pack in the fuel tanks," to give Apollo 8 every change to get back if it gets off course, Hello said, while at the same time making certain spaceship systems are ultra-reliable.

For example, a new main engine has been installed aboard Apollo 8 "not because the old engine was bad, but because we wanted one that was superb—the best of the breed," Hello said in an interview.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials announced Tuesday that the three Apollo 8 pilots—Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders—have been given the go-ahead to blast off Dec. 21 for a 10-orbit flight around the moon Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

Apollo 8 will be the first manned flight aboard a huge Saturn 5 superrocket, the type booster built to hurl astronauts to the moon. America's Apollo 7 pilots, who successfully orbited earth for 10 days last month, were launched by a smaller Saturn 1B booster, forerunner of the Saturn 5.

Czech, Vatican Relations Better

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI hinted today that despite the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia relations between the Vatican and the Prague government are again improving.

He dropped the hint at his weekly general audience, where he told a group of Czechoslovakians in the crowd of several thousand that developments in their country were being watched with great interest. He added: "We see with pleasure the start of a little more liberty and freedom of movement for the Catholic Church."

The remark was the firmest indication yet that the Vatican was optimistic that the Soviet occupation of Czechoslovakia had not doomed prospects for negotiations between the Holy See and the Czech government.

Storm Claims Eight Lives

By The Associated Press
A severe northeaster churned across New England today after battering the mid-Atlantic states with heavy snow, rain and near hurricane force winds in an icy foretaste of winter.

The blustering storm, New England's third northeaster in six days, roared toward Nova Scotia, leaving in its wake a path of death and destruction. Winds as high as 81 miles per hour were clocked atop New Hampshire's 6,288-foot Mt. Washington.

At least eight storm-related deaths were reported in New England and several more fatalities were attributed to the weather further south.

Southern New England was drenched by wave after wave of gale-driven rain and as much as a foot of new snow fell in the north.

Gale driven seas crashing over a seawall caused damage at Kennebunk Beach, Maine. Breakers 20 to 30 feet high tossed boulders and other debris onto King's Highway and onto the lawns of summer cottages.

The winds also threatened the lives of thousands of small doves, a species of auk, which were blown ashore on Cape Cod. Naturalists said the birds live in salt water and can't survive ashore.

The storm, spawned in the Gulf of Mexico, roared up the coast from the Carolinas shore night to lash the shore areas with wind and rain which turned to snow further inland.

Power lines were downed, commuters delayed, bridges closed, streets flooded, schools closed, ferries stranded, boats swamped, trees felled, windows shattered and umbrellas broken.

Hundreds of families in coastal homes in New Jersey, Long Island and Connecticut were temporarily evacuated at the storm's height Tuesday but most were able to return by night.

Smokies Get Snow
In eastern Tennessee 20-year-old boys died of exposure after being lost for 30 hours while on a hunting trip near Great Smoky Mountain National Park. A third youth in the party managed to walk to safety.

Officials said the dead boys were a quarter mile from help when they collapsed in a meadow. John Cutshaw, the survivor, said rain and snow had made it almost impossible to see.

Snow accumulation of up to a foot were reported in the Tennessee Smokies and up to 15 inches in West Virginia's eastern mountains. There was 17 inches at State College, Pa., 14 inches in Flat Rock, N.C., and

Clark Makes It Clear U.S. Will Proceed Alone

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials say they believe that Saigon, faced with the prospect of having to settle its political differences with the Viet Cong alone, will drop its boycott of the broadened Paris peace talks.

This prospect appeared implicit in Tuesday's declaration by Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford that the United States intends to go ahead with negotiations with Hanoi whether Saigon joins in or not.

Clifford said the United States and Hanoi could make big strides on the most immediate issue—military de-escalation, including steps toward withdrawal of troops. Pentagon officials said such an arrangement would leave Saigon to face the Viet Cong alone in the political struggle.

The view that South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu would end his boycott, was disputed in Paris and Saigon.

All Must Agree

In Saigon, South Vietnamese Information Minister Ton That Thien said if there are to be peace talks, then all parties must agree to Thieu's formula calling for his government to head the anti-Communist negotiations while the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front is subordinate to the North Vietnamese on the other side of the table.

Thien also said unless his government participates in the negotiations, it won't recognize a cease-fire or anything else agreed on that affects its vital interests.

Pham Dang Lam, head of Saigon's observers in Paris, said he does not think his government will change its mind and join the talks under the four-party formula that would bring the Viet Cong to the bargaining table on Hanoi's side.

Although Pentagon authorities said Clifford spoke for himself, the defense chief generally reflects the views of President Johnson. He long has been one of Johnson's closest advisors on the war.

Political Issue

Clifford's words, delivered with considerable emotion, were calculated to impress on the Saigon government that the United States does not intend to let its objections stand in the way.

The effect of any U.S.-North Vietnamese talks in the new setting created by the bombing halt would be to split off military from political issues between Washington and Hanoi.

This would mean that haggling over a political settlement, including the status of the Viet Cong in any government of reconciliation, would be shunted into the background for the time being, pending any Saigon change of heart.

NLF IS READY

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong's National Liberation Front said today the Vietnam peace talks must begin without delay regardless of whether the Saigon government sends a delegation.

Duong Dinh Thao, No. 2 member of the NLF team, told a news conference that it makes no difference whether Saigon is represented. He said the NLF is "fully competent to discuss all problems concerning South Vietnam," whereas the Saigon government is merely an American creation.

Thao reiterated that the NLF is ready to take part in peace talks with the three other delegations—the United States, North Vietnam, and the South Vietnamese government. But he added:

"If Saigon does not send a delegation, then the three parties must meet without delay to find a solution on the basis of the program put forward by the NLF."

Thao declined to answer when asked whether the NLF has a time limit beyond which it will not wait for the conference to open.

He also refused to comment on U.S. Defense Secretary Clark Clifford's declaration Tuesday that the United States intends to go ahead with negotiations with Hanoi if Saigon won't join in.

Guerrillas Land In South Korea

SEOUL — (AP) — The South Korean government revealed today that a second band of North Korean guerrillas landed on South Korea's east coast two weeks ago, bringing the total number of invaders in the area to 60 this month, twice the number reported earlier.

The government says 28 members of the Communist force have been killed.

Defense Minister Yim Choong-Shik told a news conference one of the guerrilla bands landed near Ulsin, 130 miles southeast of Seoul, and the other group went ashore 35 miles north of Ulsin near the village of Smachok.

Yim said the Communists were attempting to launch a guerrilla war in South Korea. They killed five South Korean soldiers and four civilians, and wounded seven soldiers and two civilians.

The defense minister said most of the South Korean casualties occurred during the invaders' brief occupation of Ulsin before a force of police, paratroopers and marines was deployed Nov. 3 to seek out the guerrillas.

The guerrillas fled into the mountains, and the government force is on their trail.

Yim said the double landing was the largest infiltration of Communist agents since the 1953 Korean armistice. He said it apparently was aimed at establishing key guerrilla bases on the east coast. He said 26 submachine guns and nearly 15,000 rounds of ammunition were among a truckload of supplies captured from the guerrillas.

The only other similar invasion took place last January when a band of 31 commandos infiltrated overland with orders to kill President Chung Hee Park in Seoul. They didn't get to the president and most of them were killed.

Before President Johnson halted the bombing of North Vietnam on Nov. 1, he warned that productive peace talks could not be conducted "in an atmosphere where the cities are being shelled and the demilitarized zone is being abused."

Nine days after the bombing halt, on Sunday, North Vietnamese gunners in the DMZ shelled U.S. Marine positions just south of the buffer zone, killed four Leathernecks and wounded 41.

Provocations
U.S. Defense Secretary Clark Clifford said Tuesday the shellings Sunday were considered "a matter of seriousness" by the U.S. government but that so far they did not constitute a pattern.

Other sources in Washington and Saigon said the shellings appeared to be provocations to test or possibly humiliate Washington.

Meanwhile, five U.S. Navy Swift boats attacked a Viet Cong stronghold in the Bo De-Cua Lon river system at the southern tip of Vietnam. They were supported by U.S. Army helicopter gunships, South Vietnamese planes and guns of other Navy and Coast Guard ships.

A military spokesman said the attack destroyed 141 sampans, 143 enemy structures and 23 bunkers, and at least one Viet Cong was killed.

State Bonds Enrich Local Governments

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's local units of government may find themselves richer by about a million dollars a year as an indirect result of the two big state bond issues approved by the voters last week.

That estimate comes from the state treasury department, which as a result of voter authorization for bonds totaling $425 million is trying to win the state a higher credit rating and a lower interest charge.

Michigan's credit is now given an AA rating by the New York-based Moody's Publishers and Advisory Service, one of the nation's most widely read bond analyzing firms.

The treasury plans to try to convince Moody's that the state's rating should be raised to the highest possible level—AAA.

"It looks very good," says Eldon Hancock, director of the treasury's debt administration division. "We've counseled with financial experts. We've compared Michigan with other states and our situation looks very, very favorable."

Lower Interest Rates

Hancock estimates that such an upgrading of Michigan's credit rating would allow it to unload its proposed bond issues at lower interest rates—perhaps lower by 0.2 per cent or more.

Although 0.2 per cent doesn't sound like much, it would mean a maximum saving to the state of some $970,000 a year in interest just on the $425 million bond issues alone. But that assumes all the bonds will be issued at once, which isn't likely.

Hancock says also that benefits from the hoped-for higher rating would trickle down to local units — cities, counties, villages, school districts, drainage districts and so on—which also borrow money by issuing bonds.

"As Michigan goes, they go," he says. "If Michigan is rated AAA, you're dealing with millions of dollars."

"Local municipalities would benefit immensely from an AAA rating," Hancock says.

Same 0.2 Per Cent

Local units issued bonds worth more than half a billion dollars — a total of some $578,901,825—in fiscal 1966-67. If they could have saved 0.2 per cent off the interest rates they had to pay, they would have saved more than $1 million a year.

Actually, adds Hancock, the saving probably would have been more under an AAA rating, since the 0.2 per cent estimate "is a very conservative figure."

He says the state should know by the end of January whether it has convinced Moody's that it is an AAA credit risk.

Meanwhile, a tentative treasury schedule calls for the first

PROMISING OBJECT holds no treasure for Margaret Johnson, a Wayne State University freshman from Hancock, but is an old trunk washed up along the shore of Lake Michigan.

Finders Keepers?

No Such Rule For Treasure

"Finders keepers, losers weepers" doesn't actually have validity in law, points out Prof. Kenneth R. Callahan of Wayne State University's Law School, Detroit.

With coho fishermen by the thousands added to those who frequent Michigan beaches, the possibility of picking up washed-in articles of value has increased, he points out.

Not only are there many more small craft on the lakes today—with each a potential loser of floating valuables—but 6,700 ships are known to have sunk in the Great Lakes over the years, beginning with the disappearance of La Salle's Griffon in 1679.

These ships carried cargo totaling $20,000,000 in value, even at long-ago money values. The Griffon herself carried a cargo of furs. "If you find a 'treasure,' either modern or historical, don't assume it's all yours," warns the professor.

Share The Loot

Although there are practically no Michigan court cases on the rights of finders, there's a certain law, still on Michigan's statute books, passed by State fathers 122 years ago.

Called the law of "lost and unclaimed property," it deals with such matters as posting notice of having found treasure (in two public places within the township if value is $3 or more, and also in newspapers in value if $10 or more), appraisal and certification of value by a justice of the peace, restitution to the owner if he appears; and actual turning over to the township a portion of the treasure's value if the owner does not appear.

The statute has teeth in it, too, with ominous words like "fine" and "imprisonment."

And the same law applies to treasure which is not the "floatsam and jetsam" of the lakes but just plain buried treasure, says Professor Callahan.

There's plenty of this, too, some of it probably buried so close to the surface that a few kicks at the earth would expose it. The problem is to know where to kick!

Fun Anyway

Each nation that has occupied Michigan has left treasure buried in her waters and soil. There is Indian silver, French louis d'or, and English sovereigns. From more modern sources, there is loot hidden by criminals and riches of law-abiding citizens who have secreted them without revealing their location to others.

There aren't any authentic treasure maps, except charts of sinking sites for the boats that have gone down the Great Lakes. But for the land treasure, you'll find plenty of tales, fascinating legends and theories provided by Michiganders as you travel through the State.

So when you have a few hours to pass—on a lakeshore awaiting good coho weather or on one of the State's inland campsites—try looking, kicking or digging, and you'll be joining an increasing group of Michigan treasure hunters.

It will be fun, even though the treasure may not be all yours when, and if, you find it.

Safety Emblems Cut Accidents, Heirman Reports

Two years ago a law was passed that required slow moving vehicles to carry a triangle-shaped reflector emblem while traveling on highways.

The purpose of the reflector was to call people's attention to the slow moving object and thereby avoid accidents. It is apparently doing the job it was expected to do, said J. L. Heirman, Delta County extension agent.

The law went into effect in March of 1967 and the first report out shows 21 per cent fewer car-farm machinery highway accidents. The records were reported by the Michigan State Police.

At the time the law went into effect we heard some grumbling about another law and another expense of buying the emblems but when it saves lives and prevents crippling of many people it is very much worthwhile.

Delta County was one of 10 counties in the state where some survey work was done regarding farm safety. They found that farmers are complying with the law and that some farms have as many as 10 emblems purchased for the machinery that travels on roads, Heirman reported.

Medical Council Endorses Pact With Osteopaths

By ROBERT STUART
Lansing State Journal

LANSING — In an unprecedented action Friday The Council of the Michigan State Medical Society endorsed the proposed development of optional degree offerings in Doctor of Medicine and Doctor of Osteopathy degrees at the state's three medical schools.

The Council of the society represents about 9,000 medical doctors in Michigan and today's action was believed to be could lead to the optional degree programs or establishment of a state-supported osteopathic medical college.

An osteopathic college is being set up now at Pontiac but is not yet operational.

Members of the MSMS Council cited deep concern about the "serious shortage of physicians within the state," and noted that "the manpower shortage of health personnel is becoming increasingly acute and is especially crucial regarding physicians."

Most of these proposals have already been endorsed by the State Board of Education with the exception of the osteopathy recommendations which are still under study. The Legislature last year took no action on the proposed expansion of the MSU medical school to a full degree institution.

Demands Increase

"Increasing demands on the medical profession in Michigan for care, caused by burgeoning population, new health findings, Medicare and Medicaid, have increased to such a degree that some physicians are overworked to the point where they are unable to accept new patients," Dr. Taylor said.

The Council report said the MSMS is convinced that Michigan today faces "a medical manpower crisis and a situation that can only worsen."

"The origins of medicine or osteopathic medicine are of little importance with the continuing evolution of scientific medicine and the increasing quality of care. There is but one scientific basis of medical care and Michigan must continue to have medical schools of superior quality and producing the highest caliber of physician," the Council letter to Polley stated.

The Council also endorsed continued planning for the development of fourth and fifth medical schools in the state.

Council Member

The Council of the Michigan State Medical Society has as one of its members Dr. W. A. LeMire of 318 Lake Shore Drive, Escanaba. Dr. LeMire represents the MSMS 12th District and attended the recent session in Lansing.

Sale Removes Conflict Charge

LANSING (AP) — Sale of business interests to his brother has removed Michigan State University vice president Philip J. May from conflict of interest, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled Tuesday.

Kelley had found May in conflict earlier this year, an opinion which led to May's resignation as vice president for business and finance and brought angry denunciations from at least two members of the MSU Board of Trustees.

May resigned effective next July 1.

The attorney general said he had received an affidavit from May's brother, R. G. May of Sioux Falls, S. D., saying he has purchased all shares of stock in the conflicting company from May's wife, Viola.

"Neither Viola H. May nor her husband Philip J. May is receiving any distribution of funds or assets from the (company) or from its corporate operations," Kelley quoted from the affidavit.

This is satisfactory interest of the termination of the situation which led to a conflict, Kelley said, and as far as his office is concerned, the matter is closed.

May resigned effective next July 1.

The attorney general said he had received an affidavit from May's brother, R. G. May of Sioux Falls, S. D., saying he has purchased all shares of stock in the conflicting company from May's wife, Viola.

Report Fighting Near Dead Sea

TEL AVIV (AP) — An artillery and tank duel raged across the Jordan River near the Abdullah Bridge today, three miles north of the Dead Sea. One Jordanian soldier was reported killed.

It was the first heavy fighting in the arid Dead Sea area since last August, when fighting broke out in the wake of an Israeli raid on Arab guerrilla bases in the Jordan Valley.

An Israeli army spokesman claimed a Jordanian tank and artillery gunners opened up on Israeli positions after several bursts of light arms fire from the Jordanian side of the river. The battle was still going on 80 minutes later, he said.

A Jordanian spokesman claimed Israeli soldiers started the shooting with machine-gun fire. He said one Jordanian soldier was killed in the clash and the Israeli forces were believed to have suffered casualties. But the Israelis did not report any casualties.

The Jordanian spokesman also said two Jordanian soldiers were killed during the night when a band of Israeli soldiers tried to invade the east bank of the Jordan River in the Adasia area. He claimed the Israeli force was smashed in a 35-minute battle but said nothing about Israeli casualties.

GIBRALTAR (AP) — Some 130 public schoolteachers went on strike today after contract talks with the school board broke down over a salary dispute.

Some 3,000 students reported today to classrooms, where administrators and secretaries kept order but did not attempt to conduct studies.

Urge 'Head Start' For Yuletide Mail

"A letter mailed early in the day will get a head start," said Postmaster James E. Pryal.

He asked Escanaba residents to shop and mail both early in the day and early in the holiday season.

"One big advantage to shopping and mailing early in the day is avoidance of crowds—both crowds of people and crowds of mail," said the postmaster.

The great percentage of mail enters the Post Office just after 5 p. m., he said. By mailing early in the day, people assure that their gifts, cards and letters are sent by the earliest possible transportation.

Often there is only one transportation connection per day for distant points. Mail deposited after that transportation has left can be delayed one whole day before moving on to its next sorting point.

Late afternoon surges of first-class mail volume hamper the efficient use of postal machinery and manpower and cause a severe overloading of postal facilities.

"Early mailing assures an even flow of mail, not a sudden surge which could log-jam the postal system," the postmaster said. "So please shop and mail early and use ZIP Code for on-time delivery of all holiday mail."

Fine MSU Editors For Obscenities

EAST LANSING (AP) — Use of obscene words in the Michigan State University student newspaper will mean fines for three young editors, the State News general manager said today.

Manager Louis J. Berman declined to specify the amount of the fines but said they would be "substantial."

The student editors are paid a weekly salary by the university, including $75 for Editor-in-Chief Edward Brill, Merrick, N. Y.; and $60 each for Managing Editor James Granelli, East Detroit, and Campus Editor Trinka Cline, West Union, Ill.

Berman said these editors' pay would be "tapped off" because they allowed the use of four-letter obscenities in a recent issue, without "following established procedure."

"An old Michigan law holds the printer liable for any obscenities that he prints," Berman explained. "We had agreed that if the editors planned to use such words, they would give the printer (Willstatt, Inc.) a letter absolving him from blame."

O'Neil Requests Education Board Be Nonpartisan

LANSING (AP)—A Democratic sweep of state education posts in last week's election today prompted a second Republican incumbent to call for changes in the selection process.

James O'Neil, one of two Republicans on the eight-member State Board of Education, asked Gov. George Romney to work for legislation providing for non-partisan election of members of the four major education boards.

Under the present system, board candidates are nominated at their party conventions and run on partisan tickets for posts on the state board, the Michigan State University Board of Trustees, the University of Michigan Board of Regents and the Wayne State University Board of Governors.

Democrats swept into office this year as Hubert Humphrey carried Michigan.

Immediately after the election, Leroy Augenstein, O'Neil's fellow GOP board member, pledged his efforts to change the selection system, to provide either for nonpartisan election or member appointment by the governor with Senate concurrence.

"Based on the past three elections, when all the educational candidates from one party were elected each time, I doubt if any Republican—including Gov. Romney—could be elected to one of these educational posts in a (Democratic) presidential election year," O'Neil said.

"I believe that education like justice should be above partisan politics," he added in a letter to Romney, Lt. Gov. William Milliken and House and Senate leaders.

O'Neil said he would "prefer both the nomination and election of members on a nonpartisan basis. I realize that this may not be practical at this time."

He called, instead, for education board members to be nominated by party conventions and elected in nonpartisan balloting, as are candidates for the State Supreme Court.

O'Neil said Romney's legal advisor, Robert Danhof, had indicated such a change would not require a constitutional amendment.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Baez Reform

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Folk-singer Joan Baez sported a new short haircut Tuesday and a new opinion of campus demonstrations. They are "downright silly" and "irrelevant," she said.

Miss Baez, 27, who took part from time to time in the University of California at Berkeley student rebellion in 1964 although not a student there, told a news conference that there "might be a time or a reason for campus demonstrations, but I haven't seen it yet."

"If you're going to do anything really revolutionary, you're going to have to leave the campus."

Intoxicated Cats

UNION CITY (AP)—A freight train derailment added up to a number of intoxicated cats in the Union City area Monday night.

"The Penn Central train derailed when one of the engineers saw fire under a freight car and hit the emergency brake, police said."

Four of the seven cars that jumped the tracks contained whiskey, police added, and although there was no reported looting, State Police said quite a few intoxicated cats were seen in the area. They had lapped up some of the spilled whiskey.

Courts Seek Negro Jurors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal courts across the country, anticipating a new law that goes into effect next month, are seeking Negroes and others from minority groups as jury candidates.

The Federal Jury Selection Act passed by Congress in March, was intended to meet complaints that Negroes too often are passed over in federal jury selection, and it is expected to give representation on juries to all economic classes.

Proponents of the law, including President Johnson, said that there had been a tendency in the past to exclude the poor, or members of minority groups, from federal jury duty.

Apart from setting up a system of random jury selection, the act doubles the daily pay for jurors—to $20—and provides more generous subsistence allowances.

The act becomes effective Dec. 23, and senior U.S. district court judges across the country have in recent weeks been supervising the at-random selection of jury panels from which future jurors may be taken.

The names of thousands of persons who have received questionnaires and who have not claimed exemption for any of the reasons permitted under the act will be pooled.

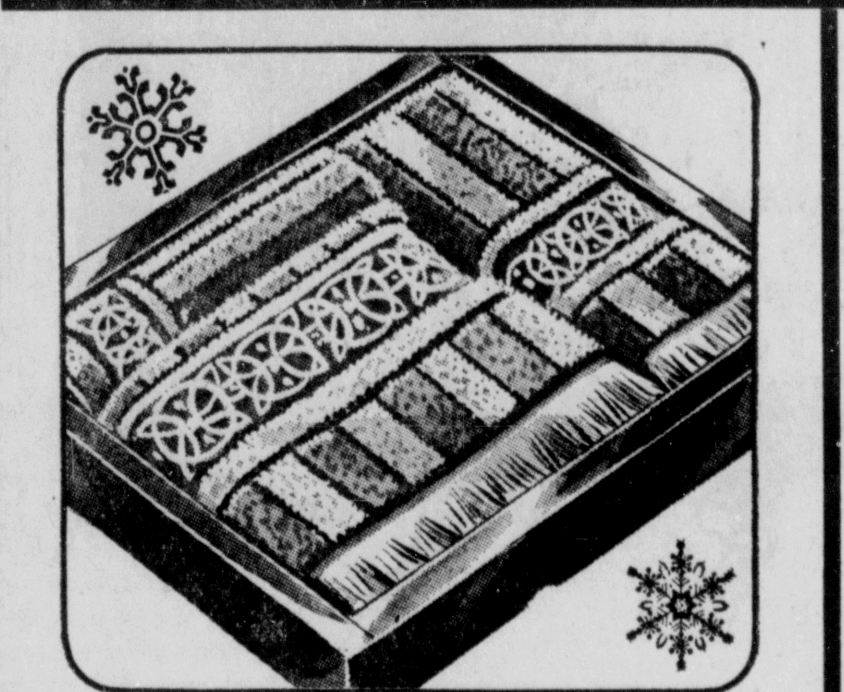

Among those who may claim exclusion are people over 70, physicians, dentists, school-teachers, clergymen, mothers with children under 10 years of age, members of the armed forces, and policemen and firemen.

Expansion

DETROIT (AP)—The Department of Health Education and Welfare Tuesday announced a $100,000 grant for the expansion of the Rehabilitation Institute in Detroit's Medical Center area. Expansion will add three floors to the six-story building and increase the number of beds from 96 to 185.

Pleasant Surprise

One of the pleasant surprises in the election was the approval of Proposals No. 3 and 4 by Michigan voters. Proposal No. 3 authorizes $835,000,000 for water pollution control through the biggest bond issue ever voted on in Michigan. Proposal No. 4 authorizes a $100,000,000 bond issue for acquisition and development of outdoor recreation facilities. Although both of the proposals have admirable objectives and although Gov. George Romney promised that no new taxes would be required if the proposals were approved, hopes for passage were not bright. Polls taken downstate showed that both proposals were in for tough sledding.

But voters, revealing their concern about the state's natural resources and the future of its outdoor recreation, gave their approval to both proposals. The clean water proposal, which was the more urgent of the two, won easily, while the quality recreation proposal was adopted by a narrow margin. The majority of voters in Marquette, Alger and Baraga Counties approved the clean water proposal but rejected the quality recreation proposal.

Passage of the proposals was due in large measure to Gov. Romney's campaigning in their behalf and to the Michigan Conservation Department's vigorous promotion of both measures. Many other groups also worked hard on behalf of both proposals, including the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, Automobile Association of America, Panax Corp. and the Michigan Citizens' Committee for Clear Water and Quality Recreation.

Although the twin bond proposals call for state expenditures totaling $435,000,000 for clean water and more recreation land, local and federal matching funds could increase the total to $1,370,000,000 to be spent in Michigan to control water pollution and improve the state's recreational facilities.

Now that the two plans have been approved, where will the money go and what will it buy?

According to the conservation department, all of the $335,000,000 in state funds for clean water will go to local governments for new sewage treatment plants, improvements to existing plants and loans for new sewers. Of the $100,000,000 in state funds for recreation, $30,000,000 will go directly to local governments for playgrounds, parks, recreation centers, etc. The remaining $70,000,000 will be spent for state parks, fishing areas, forest campgrounds, hunting areas, hiking trails, etc.

These are some of the things the conservation department says this money will buy: Two hundred and ten new sewage treatment plants and improvements to 126 existing plants; assistance for communities without sewers; three new fish hatcheries to permit planting of 20,000,000 fish per year, mostly salmon and trout; 6,000 new campsites and day-use capacity for 18,000 more cars, so that state parks may accommodate 189,000 more people daily; more state game areas in Southern Michigan, more deer habitat improvement work in Northern Michigan and more wetlands for waterfowl throughout the state; 1,500 new campsites in state forest campgrounds and 1,000 miles of trails and hiking paths for wilderness campers.

Like many other states, Michigan has delayed for entirely too long a full-scale attack on water pollution. By approving Proposal No. 3, voters recognized this and served notice that they want action to abate pollution.

The state has been in the forefront in the Midwest in providing recreational facilities in its wonderful outdoors, but population pressures made it evident that more would have to be done if Michigan were to keep pace with the demand imposed by the vacationing public. The voters have taken care of this with their approval of Proposal No. 4.

Teacher's Goal: Make Students Out Of Pupils

By LUTHER M. BARRETT
Superintendent

Escanaba Area Public Schools American Education Week (Nov. 10-16) brings a special invitation to the adults of a community to visit their schools and see education in action. It brings the opportunity to view the work done by teachers in trying to make students out of pupils.

What is a student? What is a pupil? Contrary to popular belief, they are not the same.

The dictionary says that a pupil is "a young person of either sex who is under the care of a teacher." Every young person in our schools is a pupil as each one is assigned to a teacher or a group of teachers. A student is defined as being a person "devoted to books or learning, any careful observer or investigator."

A student, therefore, is a person who wishes to learn and applies himself to that end. Not all our pupils are students.

It is the purpose of our schools and teachers to motivate the young people to become students, to wish to learn more about some branch of knowledge and to investigate or study it. Certainly not all people wish to study the same thing. With there being so much more knowledge today than ever before (it being said that man's complete fund of knowledge is doubling every seven years) there are so many different directions in which young people wish to go.

This is why a school curriculum must be more varied than ever before. This is why educational opportunities must be made available which have never existed before.

Any parent with more than one child will readily agree that children differ. There are no two alike. These parents will know that each child has different desires and different capabilities. These differences are carried into the school room and become a great challenge to the teacher and to the school program to meet all the individual differences.

To accomplish this a great variety of methods, a great variety of materials and equipment, a great variety of offerings must be provided.

If a child wishes to become a student, the school must give him something to study. Some of these young people wish to become students of music or art, some students of language, some students of the political process, some students of office practices and procedures, some students of space flight, some students of machine practices. This list could go on and on.

Of course there are a few who are not interested in learning more about anything which the school provides, so they are not students. They remain as pupils or just members of the enrollment list.

The number one responsibility of any school is to give as many young people as possible the opportunity to become students, to become interested in some field of knowledge (or several) and to study and investigate more deeply. The ideal school would be one in which every person enrolled would be classified as a student.

The court rested its ruling on the First Amendment doctrine that government may not foster a particular religious view.

Fortas explained this principle by prohibiting the teaching of evolution for what he called "the sole reason that it is deemed to conflict with a particular religious doctrine." That doctrine is a literal interpretation of the Book of Genesis.

The Arkansas law was attacked by Mrs. Susan Epperson, a young biology teacher and by H. H. Blanchard of Little Rock, who said his school children should be exposed to all scientific theory.

Mrs. Epperson claimed she could not teach biology properly in the city's Central High School without explaining the Darwinian concept of evolution.

The Arkansas State Supreme Court had upheld the law in June 1967.

An "asking bid" is one that requests your partner to reveal his exact holding in some specific suit. They were first thought of by Ely Culbertson in the early '30s. The game was not ready for them at that time and Ely abandoned this particular brain child.

As bidding methods have improved over the years experts have continued to study these bids. A few actually use them, but for the most part experts have not got around to them as yet.

Today's hand illustrates a real asking bid situation. North responds with two hearts to his partner's opening diamond bid and is surprised to hear a two-spade response. After checking his hearing, he goes into a brown study to find out what to do from then on. Obviously the only card he is interested in is the ace of clubs. How can he ask about it?

When this hand was actually dealt in a friendly International Match Point match between some of America's best young players, each North tried to solve his problem by the use of Blackwood only to elicit a five-diamond response to show one ace. After that each one decided that it was far more likely he would find his partner's ace would be in diamonds than in clubs, and settled for the cinch small slam.

They were correct in their guesses but not satisfied with their results and have decided that if they ever hold this hand again, a jump from two spades to five clubs will be a straight asking bid in clubs. It seems reasonable but we hope that they remember it when they pick up a similar hand five or 10 years from now.

What do you do now?

A—Bid two spades. Your partner may be able to beat two diamonds but it is not worth-while letting him try. Your hand is worth very little for defense.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of rebidding one no-trump your partner jumps to three spades. What do you do now?

Doctor's Statement Taken From Context

Dear Ann Landers: Our son attends an Eastern university. Recently he sent us part of a clipping from a medical journal reporting on the Seventh International Conference on Mental Health in London. The clipping, he thought might persuade us to give our approval to his smoking marijuana.

According to the report which appeared in the medical journal, Dr. Nicholas Malleon, head of London University's Student Health Service, stated that he would prefer that his teen-age sons smoke marijuana rather than overindulge in alcohol or ride a motorcycle without a crash helmet. Dr. Malleon added, "In my view marijuana is not a harmful drug."

We are shocked at this doctor's statement. Unfortunately we are not informed and are therefore unable to refute it. Will you please comment on this, Ann Landers? — BETWIXT AND BETWEEN

Dear B and B: I am aware of the conference and I wish your son had sent you the full report of the proceedings. A hot debate followed Dr. Malleon's statement.

His views were instantly challenged by Dr. Elizabeth Tylden, consultant psychiatrist at Bromley hospital (England). Dr. Donald Louria, associate professor of medicine, Cornell University Medical College, and Commissioner Arthur J. Rogers, New York State Narcotics Addiction Control Commission. Dr. Tylden said young adults who suffer from marijuana psychosis behave like schizophrenics. Dr. Louria pointed out that studies showed up to five per cent of the persons who had used marijuana more than five times became pot-heads with bouts of black depression and loss of goals. Arthur Rogers stated that 95 per cent of all known heroin users started with marijuana.

The psychiatric authorities with whom I consult report that marijuana produces confusion, hallucinations, disorientation and impulsive behavior. They insist that continued use of this drug can cause acute psychotic disorganization and complete disruption of a life plan. They say, too, a marijuana user, behind the wheel of a car, is as dangerous as a drunken driver.

And I would like to remind all campus kids who are blowing grass for kicks that possession of marijuana is a felony. A felony is a crime and a youth convicted of a crime can be dogged to his grave by this black mark on his record.

Dear Ann Landers: I am becoming more than a little interested in a girl who is 22 and claims she graduated from high school. She has a lively personality and knows how to cheer me up when I'm down in the dumps, but her grammar is out of sight. Last night she said, "I have went all over town trying to buy a tweed suit and couldn't find nothing."

Frankly, Ann, I'm ashamed to introduce her to my parents. Do you think a night school course would help? — CHARLIE

Dear Charlie: A 22-year-old who "has went all over town" sounds hopeless. Suggest night school, but don't expect miracles.

Refer Drivers For Improvement

LANSING (AP)—The Department of State reports it referred more than 7,000 Michigan motorists to local driver improvement schools during the past year. The total was more than half of the some 12,500 enrollment of the 21 schools in 14 counties. Busiest school was at Royal Oak, where 3,705 drivers took classes during the year. Other large enrollments were Macomb County with 1,712 and Genesee County with 1,071.

What Are Hunters Like? Best Friends Of Nature

By CHUCK GRIFFITH
Bureau of Wildlife

After studying wildlife for several decades, game managers admit that an important gap in their knowledge still exists. It involves hunter behavior rather than wildlife.

The professional wildlife managers are the first to admit that they need to know more about the hunter's behavior, attitudes, motivations and proficiency if the wildlife resource is to be managed properly.

Why does modern man hunt?

Desmond Morris, zoologist-author of "The Naked Ape," says man hunts to answer a persistent ancestral urge.

Man has tempered the hunting urge with sophisticated, self-imposed limitations which give the prey a fair chance of escaping. Sport hunting involves deliberately contrived handicaps and inefficiency on the hunter's part.

The late Aldo Leopold, father of modern game management, assigned three values to hunting: to remind us of our distinctive national origins and evolution; to remind us of our dependency on the soil-plant-animal-man food chain; and to exercise those ethical restraints collectively called "sportsmanship."

Weapons Improve
"Our tools for the pursuit of wildlife improve faster than we do, and sportsmanship is a voluntary limitation in the use of these armaments," Leopold wrote.

If sport hunting is the name of the game, then who is the hunter?

Ohio's Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit attempted in 1961 to develop a hunter profile, to identify the "average hunter" if such a creature exists. The unit used Ohio hunting license buyers to give them a cross-section at this faceless being.

The average Ohio hunter was 35 years old. Only one in 100 was female. More than three-fourths were married and two-thirds had families. Craftsmen and foremen made up a third, 15 per cent were laborers, 12 per cent were students, and farmers and professional people each made up 6 per cent of the total.

Half had attended some high school classes but only 6 per cent were college graduates. Only 8 per cent earned more than $9,000 a year and 17 per cent were unemployed. About half were born on farms but only an eighth in large cities. About half were veterans.

Friends Hunt
Hunting is a social experience and 92 per cent interviewed said all or some of their friends hunted, while 85 per cent said they hunt with the same companions year after year. Some 90 per cent started hunting before the age of 18 and two-thirds first hunted with their dad or a brother. More than half were not members of any conservation group.

Although Dr. Morris said most hunters come from the high and low income brackets, the Ohio hunters had high participation from the middle income brackets. Dr. Morris said low income persons turn to hunting to relieve the monotony of unemployment or dull, repetitive jobs. The wealthy do so because of ample leisure time and money.

The Ohio study showed rabbit and raccoon hunters to be the youngest and grouse hunters to be the oldest, wealthiest and best-educated.

The Ohio hunters professed to have at least some appreciation for the esthetics of hunting, half saying they'd be satisfied with the experience of hunting even if they bagged no game. Even so, other studies often show hunters, as a group, to be openly suspicious of bird-watchers and other non-hunters who have an interest in the outdoors.

Helps Nature

Even though sportsmen have been the severest critics of professional game management for decades, they also have been almost the sole support of management programs responsible for bringing back fish and game in abundance. The Ohio study indicated most would accept higher hunting license fees if the extra funds were used for scientific game and fish management programs.

Studies have shown that a fourth of duck hunters consistently bag three-fourths of the ducks each year and that successful duck hunters remain successful year after year, while the less successful waterfowler seldom improves.

Duck hunters also waste a substantial portion of the ducks they knock down. Unretrieved cripples make up nearly a third of the total duck kill. Sky-busting, failure to retrieve downed birds and all-too-common habit of shooting at everything that flies over contribute to wasteful crippling losses each year.

The hunter is among the leaders in the world fight to preserve an environment worth living in. He has matured to the point where he has adopted a new scale of values.

He recognizes that threats to the environment from air and water pollution, poor land and forest management, ill-advised use of chemical pesticides and the destruction of natural areas and wild creatures are more important subjects than the length of the quail season or the daily bag limit of pheasants.

THE ABJECT ATTITUDES of these men in San Francisco's financial district were caused by a loss — not of bets on the market, but a set of auto keys. As Keith Fitch, left, walked across California St., his auto keys vanished in the cable car slot. Down he went for a close look and, over a 45-minute period, was joined by a number of other sympathetic strollers. Fitch is second from left in the right picture. The futile search, interrupted by frequent cable cars on the downhill track, was caught by San Francisco Examiner Photographer Matt Southard, who was in the area on assignment. (AP Wirephoto)

Pollution Study By Canada, U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The International Joint Commission said Monday it plans hearings next January, both in Canada and the United States into the problem of growing pollution in some of the Great Lakes connecting channels.

It said that because of continued pollution, water quality in the St. Marys, St. Clair and Detroit Rivers is impaired.

These rivers are connections between Lake Superior and Lake Huron and between Lake Huron and Lake Erie.

The Commission commented in releasing a report by its Advisory Board on Control of Pollution of Boundary Waters.

This report, the Commission said, "indicates that discharges of inadequately treated municipal and industrial wastes are causing impairment of water quality in each of these rivers. Phenol and oil concentrates in all three, coliform concentrations in the Detroit and St. Clair and iron concentrates in the Detroit River fail to meet the water quality objectives established for these waterways by the United States and Canadian government."

It added that oil, floating solids and discoloration are serious problems and that aesthetic values are being adversely affected.

The pollution problem is aggravated, the report said, by wastes discharged from ships and pleasure boats using the channels.

The Commission said it will have public hearings next January at Windsor, Ont., and Sault Ste. Marie, to inquire into the adequacy and effectiveness of pollution abatement programs under way and "to ascertain why the established water quality objectives are not being met."

The Boundary Waters Treaty of 1909 prohibits pollution in either country to the injury of health or property in the other. In 1951 Canada and the United States adopted water quality objectives designed to maintain the waters in satisfactory condition.

Experiment In Integration

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — High school pupils from the Negro slums and predominantly white suburbs of Atlantic City take up residence in a plush boardwalk hotel today to learn to live together.

Educators hope the experiment will lead to an easing of racial unrest at Atlantic City High School and serve as a showcase for big city schools racked by racial problems.

The 70 boys and girls—equally divided between Negroes and whites—will eat, sleep, play and do their homework at the sprawling Traymore Hotel after returning from classes each day for the next four months. They all are pupils at Atlantic City High.

"We feel this will help break down the myths and stereotypes they have about one another and show them they can learn and live together under one roof regardless of race, color, religion or economic background," explained Roderick MacDonald, a 25-year-old English teacher.

MacDonald is assistant director of Project Will, a workshop in living and learning. The program is financed by a $100,000 grant under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

"It's hoped the 72 will take back the experiences and ideas they share in the hotel to the other 2,800 students in the school and serve as a catalyst in helping them to understand each other," MacDonald said.

City Rule Removes Barber Poles

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Barbers are protesting a city ordinance which would remove their barber poles along with certain other advertising signs. Richard Burkland, executive secretary of the Evanston Chamber of Commerce, is on their side.

"The situation is ridiculous," he said Tuesday. "It's akin to protesting motherhood, or banning apple pie. I think it's un-American."

Canvass Confirms Result Of Election Night Tally

The official canvass of Delta County voting in the general election has confirmed unofficial results as tabulated by news media members in cooperation with county officials on election night.

It also revealed that Henning Blomen and Eldridge Cleaver each received one vote, trailing Fred Halstead who received 12 in the presidential election, and that Delta County elected a Drain Commissioner and County Surveyor.

For major candidates and questions there were no significant changes in the totals reported, although several totals were somewhat higher than originally reported.

The total for Einar Erlandson, Democratic candidate for 108th District state representative, grew 112 votes to 6,055 from the first reported total of 5,943. Rep. Charles Varnum's official total of 6,964 was the same as first reported.

Varnum won the election handily.

Right on Nose

Initial news reports on Delta County totals also were correct for President-elect Richard M. Nixon (5,829), Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey (7,821), Congressman Philip Ruppe (8,023), and Raymond F. Clevenger (5,836) in the presidential and congressional races.

George Wallace's total was reported at 659, a total of 41 less votes than the 700 he actually received, but a 39 vote error was made in the report from Precinct 6 in Escanaba, where election workers first reported Wallace failed to receive a single vote.

The report on the Escanaba Area school millage was incorrect by two votes, both against the proposal. It still passed, 4,064 to 3,492.

Election of a Drain Commissioner and County Surveyor—two positions which have no official status in the county—was possible because they never have been officially abolished by the Board of Supervisors. No money is budgeted by the Board of Supervisors for either position.

Finman Leads

James Stewart of Gladstone, who drew 13 write-in votes, was elected Drain Commissioner over Richard Peterson of Kipling, who received seven votes. Willard LaFond, also of Gladstone, received the only 10 votes cast for County Surveyor.

Highest vote getter of any candidate for any office was Harold O. Finman of Escanaba, who ran unopposed for Delta County Sheriff. Finman received 9,080 votes.

The official results, by office:

President: Hubert Humphrey, 7,821; Richard Nixon, 5,829; Fred Halstead, 12; Henning Blomen, 1; George Wallace, 700; Eldridge Cleaver, 1. Congressman (11th District): Raymond Clevenger, 5,836; Philip Ruppe, 8,023.

Greenleigh Vice President Robert Letters, who conducted the study, proposed vast re-vamping of the aims, services and affiliations of the UCS. Letters also said racial representation on the board of UCS is unbalanced.

The Greenleigh researcher urged establishment of an Inner City committee to keep in touch with the community to keep after programs administrators about community problems. He also suggested the abolition of several existing committees and the formation of a number of temporary committees in their places when necessary.

The report also urged stronger cooperation between UCS and government social agencies, saying the fund-raising organization could become the city's main social planning agency.

The United Community Service is under no obligation to accept the study group's recommendations. It is expected to reach a conclusion on the report sometime next spring.

Rotary Explores Role In Serving Crippled Child

The Escanaba Rotary Club heard "fact-finding" reports on its program of service to crippled and handicapped children of the community at its Tuesday meeting, and will at a future meeting discuss how the program can be extended and made more effective.

The reports were presented by members of the club's crippled children's committee, headed by John A. Lemmer. The meeting was conducted by Dr. Richard Rinehart, club president.

Reporting besides Lemmer were J. L. Heirman, Erling Arntzen, Clint Dunathan, Nevin Reynolds and A. W. Moberg.

Rotary service to the handicapped and crippled children began here more than 40 years ago, with L. J. Jacobs, senior member of the Rotary Club, and the late Herman Gessner among the founders of the program. James Degnan was committee chairman for many years.

Rotary Camp Harstad, summer camp for handicapped youngsters of the area, was established in 1949 on the Ford River shore. The camping program had been inaugurated earlier, with children sheltered in tents.

The land on which the camp is located was a gift from the late Ole Harstad, Bark River businessman, who also bequeathed $26,000 to the Crippled Children's Association in 1955.

There have been other bequests that have brought the total gifts to $38,000 for crippled children's work in the community, reported Nevin Reynolds. The gifts include $2,000 from Matt Petersen in 1957, $1,000 from William Primrose, $7,047 from Lydia Knutson, plus $2,000 in Rotary reserves.

The funds are invested through Harris Trust of Chicago and the market value is now about $49,000. Earnings on the investment are used for crippled children's work and the body of the trust is held intact, Reynolds said.

Additional bequests will come to the fund from the Carl Sawyer estate, $10,000 or more, and from the Ray Perring estate, which is still in process with the Crippled Children's Association the residual legatee.

Reynolds said that he anticipated the fund will grow to $80,000 or more in the coming years.

The purpose of the program was to inform the Rotarians of the status of the club's work with handicapped and crippled children, and to encourage discussion on how the club can make its crippled children's project more effective in service to the community.

New Style To Dirty Politics

WASHINGTON (AP)—The director of the Fair Campaign Practices Committee says old-style dirty politics is giving way to more subtle smears "in the form of Madison Avenue tactics."

These are the tactics, Samuel J. Archibald said Tuesday, that were "formerly used to sell under arm deodorant."

Despite the emergence of more sophisticated smears, Archibald told reporters the 1968 election was the cleanest in years.

This year, there were 62 complaints of code violations compared to 68 in 1966 and 98 in the last presidential election year of 1964.

Archibald said nine complaints concerned the presidential race, compared to 35 in 1964.

Archibald said he felt his committee's actions—receiving complaints, going to the opposite party for comment and when a file is complete then informing the news media of all communications—had worked superbly.

"What we are doing is getting both sides to the public," Archibald says. "Sometimes we have to go back to each party several times to get all the issues answered. But we never make judgments."

In 1966, he said, 65 per cent of the "candidates involved in dirty politics lost their election." He hasn't compiled a win-loss record for this year.

Economy Mustang

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co. plans to come out with an economy Mustang soon. A firm spokesman says the new "Mustang E" will provide up to 15 per cent better fuel economy with a 155-horsepower, six-cylinder engine and a larger-than-usual torque converter. The new car will be available only with automatic transmission and without air conditioning.

Name Sandwich To Get Heroin

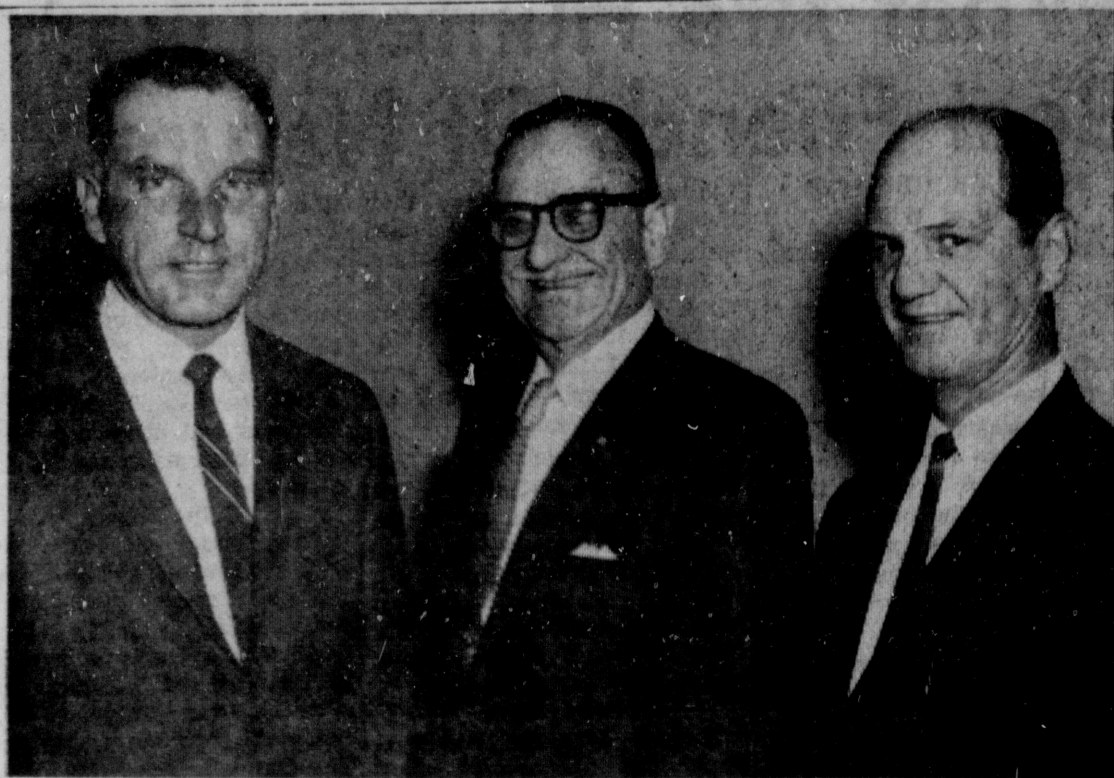

CHICAGO (AP)—A counter man at a Near North Side restaurant was slated to appear in narcotics court today charged with serving up heroin stuffed sandwiches to customers who knew the code words.

Carlos Figuera-Diaz, 21, of Chicago was arrested by police Tuesday night after a narcotics addict reportedly told detectives Diaz was slipping aluminum foil packages of the drug into certain "sandwiches."

Police said under the system used by Diaz, a narcotics addict would get varying amounts of heroin depending upon what kind of sandwich he ordered.

Prices varied from $20 to $60 depending on the type of "sandwich" ordered and police estimated Diaz did $2,000 worth of business a day.

Police found heroin valued at $5,000 hidden behind a false ceiling in the restaurant.

Carl J. Hagman Taken By Death

Carl John Hagman, 77, of 516 S. 16th St. died at 1:50 p.m. Tuesday at St. Francis Hospital where he had been a patient for the past 10 weeks.

He was born June 18, 1891 in Sweden and had been employed as a welder and blacksmith for the Chicago & North-western Railway. Mr. Hagman was a member of the Central United Methodist Church and the Excelsior Lodge 175, F & AM of Milwaukee.

He is survived by his widow, Victoria; one son, Wallace John of Appleton, two grandchildren, four sisters, Mrs. Hannah Carlson of Escanaba and three in Sweden; two brothers, Eric of Lehigh Acres, Fla., and one in Sweden.

Friends may call at the Anderson Funeral Home from 4 to 9 p.m. today and Masonic services will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Complete funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Thursday at the funeral home with the Rev. Robert Selberg officiating. Burial will be in Lakeview Cemetery.

JERRY CARON, son of Mrs. Leo Caron 510 N. 20th St., Escanaba, and Dennis Liptrap, graduate assistant in animal husbandry at Michigan State University, examine a Hereford steer during a livestock evaluation class at East Lansing. During the term, the students study the economic importance of beef cattle, swine and sheep. Caron, a graduate of Holy Name High School, is a senior majoring in wildlife ecology at MSU.

'Eye In Sky' Tracks Area Deer 'Shiners'

By DAVE ANDREWS

It was one of those twilight zone nights when the moon not quite strong enough to beam through the thin clouds and the cover not heavy enough to shut off all the light. The fields were ringed with the shadows of forests. It was quiet.

Sitting in the green patrol car with front windows rolled down, the officer and his partner listened into the semi-darkness outside.

It was cool, but not cold, one of the better fall nights to be working.

The patrol by Conservation officers from the Escanaba District was a couple of hours old. It was a group patrol with three cars triangulating in the Watson, Cornell and West Rock areas. We were working the Watson stakeout, but despite the manpower the night had been largely uneventful.

Fly Wide Circle

It didn't figure, especially with the department's "eye in the sky" flying a broad circle overhead. Anything moving in the area was under immediate surveillance.

"Three four from Chopper One," the patrol car radio barked.

"Go ahead, Chopper One," said the officer behind the wheel.

"We've got one that's been throwing a light around. What's your location?"

"In a field just off 426," the officer answered.

"Give me your light," ordered the pilot.

Officer Frank Opolka of Escanaba, a six-year veteran of game patrols, flashed the blue light atop the car. The light blinked momentarily against the trees lining the field, then disappeared.

"Got you," said the chopper. "He's about four miles up 426."

The suspect vehicle was less than five minutes away. The patrol car jumped forward from its hiding place in the gravel road and a few seconds later swung left on Delta County Rd. 426 north of Cornell.

Minutes later, the radio spoke again.

"Hold up," it said. "Got another possible."

Vehicle Halted

Opolka eased off the gas, pulled the car into a little-used camp driveway and cut his lights. The helicopter pilot advised that the second car had pulled into a farmyard and stopped, but the first suspect was coming closer.

From the patrol car, the lights of the vehicle were visible moving slowly down 426. In several minutes, the car was only several hundred yards away, the driver still "working the light in the field" and obviously quite unaware he was being watched.

"I'm going to shake him down," Opolka said.

Head-on stops are difficult, but the suspect car was moving slowly. Opolka flagged it down with a flashlight. The driver and officer talked briefly. Opolka returned to the patrol car.

"He's clean," he reported to the chopper.

The same vehicle had been checked earlier in the evening. The driver was shining for deer, but he was just looking. No rifle or gun in the car. No violation.

Arrests Vary

Overhead, David St. Germaine of Marquette, a veteran of Vietnam helicopter flying, swung the Enstrom F-28 to the south.

"Nothing moving in your area, three four," he advised.

"Some nights it goes this way," Opolka commented. "Other nights we get four or five 'keepers' in a row."

Earlier in the evening other vehicles had been checked. Some of the cars had been "shining" fields, others were on roads not normally used by "through" traffic and thus suspect.

Four people in a pickup truck were found to be "friends" of the department checking their own camp property. A light in a field proved to be two youngsters on a motorscooter joyride. A station wagon was "clean."

Many of them, however, were surprised they had been watched.

The use of air observers in law enforcement isn't particularly new. Conservation law officers have been using aircraft for a number of years and the State Police have made use of planes in clocking speeders on state highways.

The helicopter provides an even greater weapon. Flying at low levels at night, automobile

Legion Honors 50-Year Vets

Cloverland Post No. 82, the American Legion, observed Veterans Day with a dinner for veterans and friends Saturday night at the Legion Club, with 100 enjoying the dinner prepared and served by the ladies of the Auxiliary.

Legionnaires with a continuous membership of 50 years were honored during the evening and presented with golden 50-year cards and a 50-year cap patch by Commander Roman Gill.

Commander Gill welcomed the guests and turned the meeting over to C. Elmer Olson, general chairman, who commented on the golden anniversary of the Legion that will be observed through Veterans Day, 1969. He then turned back the pages of Legion history to 1919 when the then Mayor Chaffet appointed Edward Moersch to represent the veterans of the community at the famous St. Louis caucus at which time the American Legion was officially born.

"Upon the return of Comrade Moersch, a meeting of the servicemen of Escanaba was held and the nucleus of the present post resulted. It was decided to name the unit Cloverland Post, that being a designation of the district adopted for publicity purposes. Immediately upon receipt of the charter the following officers were elected: Walter Janson, commander; Dr. Harry J. Defnet, adjutant; Edward Moersch, finance officer; and Rev. F. Dooley, chaplain," Olson reported.

Fifty-year members present were: Victor F. Anderson, John L. Carlson, Richard Flath, Emerson Harvey, Michael B. Jensen, T. F. Kessler, Edward L. Moersch, Ralph R. Olsen and Roy T. Starrin.

The Auxiliary Unit of the Post was organized in 1921 and the first president, Mrs. Nora (Michael) Jensen was introduced.

Group singing was conducted by Alfred Provencher, accompanied by Mrs. Clinton Groos at the piano.

Legionnaires assisting in the program were Joseph Wery, John Carlson, Roy Baldwin, George Hentz, Alfred Provencher, Joseph Perron, Edward Anderson, Leland Thompson, Reynold Gustafson and Robert Gannon.

Committee on tables was the Mesdames Olson, Gifford, Wery, Mathews and Priester; and the committee in kitchen Mesdames Jensen, Bryson, McNaughton, Lindstrom and Carlson.

The floral centerpiece at the 50-year member table was donated by Auxiliary President Mrs. Carrie Larson.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS are up in the downtown business district in Escanaba, with garlands of greens and strings of colored lights bringing a festive appearance to the community. The lights are turned on and store and shops are inviting the holiday shoppers with cororfully decorated windows and special dis plays. (Daily Press Photo)

Problem Areas Cited: School Board Attacks Building Maintenance

By DAVE ANDREWS

CORNELL—Deficiencies in custodial and maintenance work in buildings of the Escanaba Area public schools were attacked as "intolerable" Tuesday night by the Escanaba Area Board of Education.

Trustee Charles Tooman presented a 62-point report which listed custodial and maintenance problems, primarily in elementary schools in the township areas.

Tooman said he and Trustees Ralph Kaziatek and Ronald Lanford compiled the report after a recent visit to most of the schools in the district.

Kaziatek said schools in Escanaba, except for the Webster, were in generally good condition, but that township schools had been neglected.

Report Ordered

The report was referred to the custodial and maintenance departments and a report on progress made in correcting the problems ordered for the next board meeting, Dec. 10.

Many of the items listed will require board approval of an appropriation to purchase materials needed for repairs. Others, however, could be corrected with little or no expense, except for the time required of school personnel.

Among items listed for attention were:

Wells School—"Get the lawn mowed. One section of the front lawn (N. 5th St.) has about a six-inch growth of alfalfa. We were told that the last time the lawn was mowed it was done by mothers in the neighborhood. There is no excuse for the need of this type of action . . . Enclose the restroom in the teacher's room . . . Buy a pump so the restrooms in the first and second grade rooms can be used . . . put covers on the electrical control panels in the halls . . . gravel to fill in water holes in the playground and also to eliminate the muddy conditions at the N. 5th St. entrance . . ."

Pine Ridge School—"Replace plaster and wall tile in the boy's restroom . . . if possible, could someone take the responsibility for running up the flag . . . put covers on the electric control panels in the halls . . ."

Ford River School—"Dirty furnace room . . . door open at bottom of chimney . . . bare wire exposed from previous heating system . . . In one of the stalls in the boys restroom there was neither toilet tissue nor holder for such . . . playground equipment is inadequate. There was only one working swing on the playground . . . Furnace room. Water and steam both shooting from a broken seal in one of the pipes. Water was dripping into a five gallon bucket. The bucket had been filled for some time and the water was running all over the floor . . . Let's approve some method for catching rats and mice other than placing open rat poison on an open shelf in the library. Somebody wasn't thinking . . ."

Cornell School—"Lawn needed mowing . . . ceiling tile need painting . . . odor in boy's restroom . . . broken windows . . ."

Soo Hill School—"Neither towels nor towel rack in the restroom of the basement in the old building . . . at least paint the chalk board in the old building so the boards can be better utilized in the classrooms . . . Library facilities are inadequate . . . swings on playground need attention."

Webster School—"Urinal in boy's restroom. Janitor claims it has not worked for 12 years. It is covered with cardboard and is soaked with both water and urine. This is unacceptable . . . pump for boiler room is just exactly the reason there have been problems with the township people," she told the board. "They saw it and nobody else did."

Mrs. Reed apparently referred to recent millage campaigns in the Escanaba Area district, where until the Nov. 5 general election repeated requests for operating millage have been rejected.

Teachers Hired

In other action, the board approved hiring three new teachers, agreed to write off against the general fund a deficit of $7,173 being carried in the old Hot Lunch account, and approved contracts with the Delta County Road Commission for snow plow service at Cornell, Pine Ridge and Ford River schools.

Teachers hired were Mrs. Ellen Fulcher, to teach four periods a day at the high school to relieve loads in math classes; Mrs. Carol Butryn, to teach a new combination first-second grade room at Soo Hill, and Mrs. Myrna Kaiser, to teach a new first grade section at Wells.

The Board also appointed Dr. Donald Alimenti to represent the Area School district on the Overall Economic Development and Planning Committee for Delta County and referred to the High School student council a question on discipline in the high school.

The present policy of the district involves suspension of students without permission to make up missed classwork for certain types of misbehavior in school. Feeling of the board was that suspension of a student might be too severe if an alternative method of discipline can be developed.

Deer Hunting Rule Changed

Student deer hunters in the Escanaba Area public schools were given permission to take Friday off from school for opening day of the 1968 deer hunt by the Escanaba Area Board of Education Tuesday night.

Permission to leave school to go hunting opening day will be granted to those students who present a written note from their parents.

Since 1963, policy of the Escanaba Area schools has been not to grant leave from classes for deer hunting. Absences were regarded as unexcused and students were not allowed to make up missed assignments. Since 1963, however, deer season has opened on a Saturday. This year's hunt, in a change by the Conservation Department, opens Friday in the Nov. 15-30 season.

Deer Hunting Rule Changed

derstaffed, custodianwise" compared to any other school district with which he has been associated.

Barrett pointed out that maintenance men of the district also are used to replace custodians in situations where an employee reports sick, for example, and also have been kept busy making other repairs.

He said that if a list was compiled of the work which has been completed, it would greatly outdistance the report of work which needs attention.

One of the problems, it was pointed out, is the continued breakage of window glass at schools in the district. A teacher at the meeting said that 32 windows have been broken in the Webster school already this year. Others have been smashed in the Administration Building and other schools.

The school district, also, for the past two years has been operating on austerity budgets and maintenance appropriations were trimmed by the Board of Education to reduce deficit spending.

Mrs. Gerald Reed of Ford River, a member of the Better Understanding of Schools Committee, was pleased with the report and the possibility of corrective action.

"I'm very happy some of these problems have been brought to light, because this

Hunter Traffic Gains In Area

State Police of the Gladstone Post today reported traffic increasing on main highways in the area as deer hunters from lower Michigan began moving into the Upper Peninsula for the opening of the 1968 firearm deer hunt Friday.

Peak traffic is expected Thursday, but officers indicated they did not feel it would approach the traffic of a year ago.

The Michigan deer season has a uniform opening in both Upper and Lower Michigan this year and officers said many hunters probably will remain in lower Michigan for opening day.

Last year, hunting in the Upper Peninsula opened a week in advance of the Lower Michigan firearm season and many hunting parties came to the Upper Peninsula for opening day, then returned to Lower Michigan to get a "second opener" a week later.

Troopers said one Lower Michigan hunter, James Mallo, Rte. 1, White Pigeon, bagged a deer about 6:30 a.m. today with his automobile on U. S. 2 near the Ogontz River.

About 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, officers reported, Louis Weiland, 1813 12th Ave., N., Escanaba, also hit a deer with his car on U.S. 41 about a mile north of Rapid River. There were no injuries reported in either accident, officers said.

Traffic Lights Shot Out; Three Men Questioned

Escanaba police would like to have the cooperation of the public in solving the city's most recent mystery: Who are the persons who are shooting out traffic lights on the city's main streets?

Six traffic lights were shot out last night and the theory might be that the damage was done by: 1 — Prospective hunters who wanted to see how their rifles are working, or 2 — A disgruntled motorist who may have gotten a ticket for running a traffic light.

Shot out were lights at Washington Ave. and 12th St., at the Y intersection of Stephenson, Washington and Sheridan, at 3rd Ave. N. and Stephenson, and on Ludington St., at 10th and 23rd Sts.

Three young men were questioned and released. Rifle shells found on the person of one of the youths were retained by police as the investigation continues.

Cancer Research Aid To Pollution Control

DETROIT (AP) — A leading American scientist said Tuesday the search for a cancer cure has led to valuable discoveries about other health problems in the world.

"Penetration of the mystery of cancer has stimulated research on man's environment, biology and behavior," said Dr. Robert Marston, director of the National Institutes of Health, in a speech to the 96th annual Public Health Association meeting in Detroit.

The need for controlling the pollution of man's environment—whether by automobile exhaust or the spraying of pesticides—has been demonstrated by cancer research, Marston added.

"This focus of attention on the problems of environmental health," he said, "may urge us to come to grips with the far broader implications of a soiled and deteriorating environment while there is still time to do something about it."

Marston traced the progress that has been made in the treatment of cancer.

From a situation in which few cancer patients had any hope of cure in the early 1900's, he said, there has been steady improvement to the point where about one in three can expect to live for at least another five years.

"There are about 1.4 million Americans alive today who, five years after diagnosis, show no evidence of the disease," Marston said.

The NIH director said there is perhaps more optimism in 1968 than ever before over the progress in cancer diagnosis and treatment.

But, he cautioned, it also is true that the magnitude of the problems to be overcome is so great that both doctors and patients undoubtedly will face disappointments as expectations repeatedly exceed the ability to deliver.

Marston's speech was the first Harold S. Diehl Lecture, a new lectureship co-sponsored by the American Cancer Society and the American Public Health Association. It was created in honor of Dr. Diehl on his retirement last spring as senior medical officer of the society.

Dow Acquisition

NEW YORK — (AP) — Dow Chemical Co. of Midland, Mich., will acquire one-half interest in Phrix-Wrecke AC, a synthetic fiber producer of Hamburg, Germany, for $41,195,000, Phrix-Werke said Tuesday.

The Germany company said the additional capital will enable it to broaden its production capacity and continue its modernization program.

Complaints, Suggestions Aired At Labor Hearing

The Joint House-Senate State Labor Committee, conducting a Public Hearing in Manistique Monday into timber producers complaints of "outrageously" high Workman's Compensation rate in Michigan, heard a variety of suggestions and complaints from the over 50 independent jobbers and pulpwood companies representatives attending the hearing. Both Upper Peninsula and northern lower Michigan timber producer delegations were present at the 12:30 p. m. meeting at the Fireside Inn.

Although a 26 per cent reduction in Michigan Workman's Compensation rates is expected in December the situation is still intolerable, the committee was told by one of the jobbers.

Suggestions offered included a work-experience plan for computing a minimum premium based on an employer's safety record. This would be one solution to what was termed "an inequitable situation" and which is forcing both independents and corporations out of the timber industry, according to testimony. A statewide safety program was another suggestion and less liberal compensation benefits were also discussed.

Assail Rating Bureau
Michigan jobbers are presently assessed $27.24 per $100 payroll for their workman's compensation insurance and are required by law to pay into the program for every worker they employ consecutively for a 13-week period. Their main complaint is that the excessively high Michigan rate retards their competitiveness in the logging market with their Wisconsin and Minnesota counterparts.

A Lake City jobber told the committee that the only loss he filed in a three-year period occurred when one of his workers reached into a stump and came up with a fox squirrel bite. The medical treatment bill totaled $12, he recalled, while his assessment rate for coverage was computed on the $24.27 base rate.

The Hearing boiled at times as other jobbers recalled their experiences with the Workman's Compensation Rating Bureau and related how the unfair base rate was penalizing the man with a perfect safety record. Why can't the insurance rates be adjusted to an individual's past claim record, they asked?

High Benefit Rate
John Marshall, a Detroit member of the Workman's Compensation Rating Bureau, told the complainants that Michigan enjoys the third-high-

PARTICIPATING in the Public Hearing held in Manistique on Monday afternoon at the Fireside Inn were Rep. James Bradley (D-Detroit); Sen. Oscar Bouwsma (R-Muskegon) chairman of the Committee; Sen. Robert Vanderlaan (R-Grand Rapids); Sen. Thomas Schweigert (R-Petoskey) and Rep. Charles Varnum (R-Manistique). Testimony was offered by independent jobbers and major Pulpwood companies on the high rate of Workman's Compensation insurance. The protestors claim the state is forcing them out-of-business.

est benefit rate in the U. S. Michigan's weekly maximum benefit is $93 and is exceeded by only Arizona and Alaska. Insurance rates were raised 43.5 per cent by the legislature in 1965 when workman's compensation benefits were liberalized. Marshall also reminded the audience that one single claim could go into several thousands of dollars and that premiums were gauged on an estimate of losses and a reserve fund for future payments.

The safety factor came in for heated discussion with the loggers complaining that the days of the old lumberjacks are gone and new employees must be trained in the skills of the woods work. Bosses on the job to check safety procedures was one suggestion by an independent jobber.

Disagreeing in part with this proposal, Frank Hoholik, president of the Manistique Pulp & Paper Co. said that hard hats, hard toe shoes and shoulder pads were not the answer to the safety program. "Surveys have shown that 87 per cent of injuries are caused by the human element. The individual must be trained to observe good safety practices," he insisted.

Hoholik paid tribute to the loggers and their contributions to Michigan's timber industry while urging an evaluation of the current problems. "What we owe these men can never be adequately expressed," he said. "The economic situation is not good and it's not going to get any better unless we help them. There's an exodus in the industry. In the past seven years the Upper Peninsula has lost two pulp mills and yet we have ample pulpwood, ample potential but existing industry does not expand."

Falsified Claims
Benefits for injured workers who malingering were discussed but no concrete proposals could be suggested to curb the practice of collecting falsified claims by unscrupulous individuals.

Chairing the Public Hearing, the third such one held in the past three months, was Sen. Oscar Bouwsma (R-Muskegon). Other Committee members included Senators Robert Vanderlaan (R-Grand Rapids); Stanley Novak (D-Detroit) and Rep. James Bradley (D-Detroit). Sen. Thomas Schweigert (R-Petoskey), Rep. Charles Varnum (R-Manistique), William D. Morgan and John Marshall. Workman's Compensation Rating Bureau, and Don Hoover, director of the Bureau of Safety & Regulations, State Labor Dept., were also in attendance.

Sen. Bouwsma said that many new and important points were raised and promised that his Committee would consider all of them before any recommendations were made. He indicated the possibility of a fourth Hearing in Iron Mountain in early December.

Varnum was optimistic about the productivity of the Hearing and suggested that the proposed 26 per cent reduction in workman's compensation rates was the result of the previous Hearings. If the reduction is approved by the Rating Bureau in December, Michigan's base rate will drop to $20.16.

Sales Tax Split Near $25,000

County Treasurer William Cowman has received $24,973.29 in third quarter payments from the State Sales Tax Diversion Funds. The payment is based on $2.79 per capita computation.

The City of Manistique will realize $13,595.67; Doyle Township: $1,634.94; Germfask Township: $1,813.50; Hiawatha Township: $1,939.05; Inwood Township: $1,740.96; Manistique Township: $1,799.55; Mueller Township: $923.49; Seney Township: $658.44; and Thompson Township: $867.69.

The $24,973.29 payment, for the quarter ending Sept. 30, compares with the June 30 quarterly payment which was computed on $2.71 per capita and yielded to total county payment of $24,257.21.

Barry Will Run

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Gene Barry says he hopes to run in 1970 for the U.S. Senate seat now held by George Murphy, a longtime film star before he was elected to the Senate in 1964 as a Republican. Barry said he would like the Democratic party nomination.

"I've worked on every campaign since John F. Kennedy's in 1960, locally and nationally," Barry said in an interview Monday. "So far it's just a personal intention. I do not yet have the sanction of the Democratic party."

MANISTIQUE Guard Unit Has New Commander

Second Lt. Jack Weinert, Platoon Leader of the 2nd Platoon Company D, 107th Engineers, has been assigned as Detachment Commander of the Manistique Unit, National Guards, as of Oct. 2, 1968. The assignment is being announced by Lt. Col. Austin E. Lindberg, Battalion Headquarters, Ishpeming.

Lt. Weinert is employed by the First National Bank of Manistique and joined the National Guard as a recruit on Aug. 6, 1965. He attended Officers Candidate School at Ft. Benning, Ga. and was commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant Aug. 12, 1967 and assigned to the Manistique Unit.

Manistique's National Guard Unit has had four commanders since its organization on Mar. 25, 1949. Maj. Edward Doyle served as its first commander from 1949 until June, 1961; Capt. John P. Quick from June 1961 to Feb. 1968 and 1st Lt. Howard Handorf from Feb. 1968 until Oct. 2, 1968.

'My Favorite Phony' Is Film For Youths

The importance of God in the life of a teenager forms the backdrop for a 30-minute color film, "My Favorite Phony", which will be shown at the Bethel Baptist Church at 7 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 17.

"My Favorite Phony" is a dramatic film and tells the story of Nick and Jody, typical spaceageers who place more importance on themselves and the exciting world around them than on spiritual dimensions. How they face up to the need for a vital faith in God makes this film of intense relevance to the world today.

Films of this nature are shown every other month by the Youth Group of the Church. All youths in the area are invited to attend the 7 o'clock showing.

Briefly Told

Leslie Gould, Rte. 1, Manistique, was cited by Michigan State Police on Monday for transporting an uncased firearm in his auto. Gould appeared before Justice Howard Magoon Tuesday morning, pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $5 and $7.30 costs.

Herbert Popour, Star Route, Manistique, was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way after his car struck the left side of a pick-up truck driven by Stephen Goudreau of Gulliver. The mishap occurred Monday in Hiawatha Township on M-94 at the Dodge Lake Rd. Popour was making a right turn onto M-94 when he struck the Goudreau truck. No personal injuries and minor damage to each vehicle was reported.

Central, Doyle, Fairview, Hiawatha schools hot lunch menu for Thursday will include roast sliced pork with apple sauce, whipped potatoes and gravy, buttered corn, carrot sticks and beverage.

Mom's of America Unit 31 will meet Friday, Nov. 15 at 8 p.m. at the VFW Club Rooms. Mrs. Alec Cooper and Mrs. Martha Malloch will be hostesses. Members are reminded to bring table service.

American Legion Auxiliary will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Youth Center with a shower for the VA Gift Shop being held. Any Auxiliary member who cannot attend to night's meeting but wishes to contribute to the shower may contact Mrs. Fred Hahne or Mrs. Marvin Mercier before Friday. Ladies attending tonight should bring table service for the potluck luncheon.

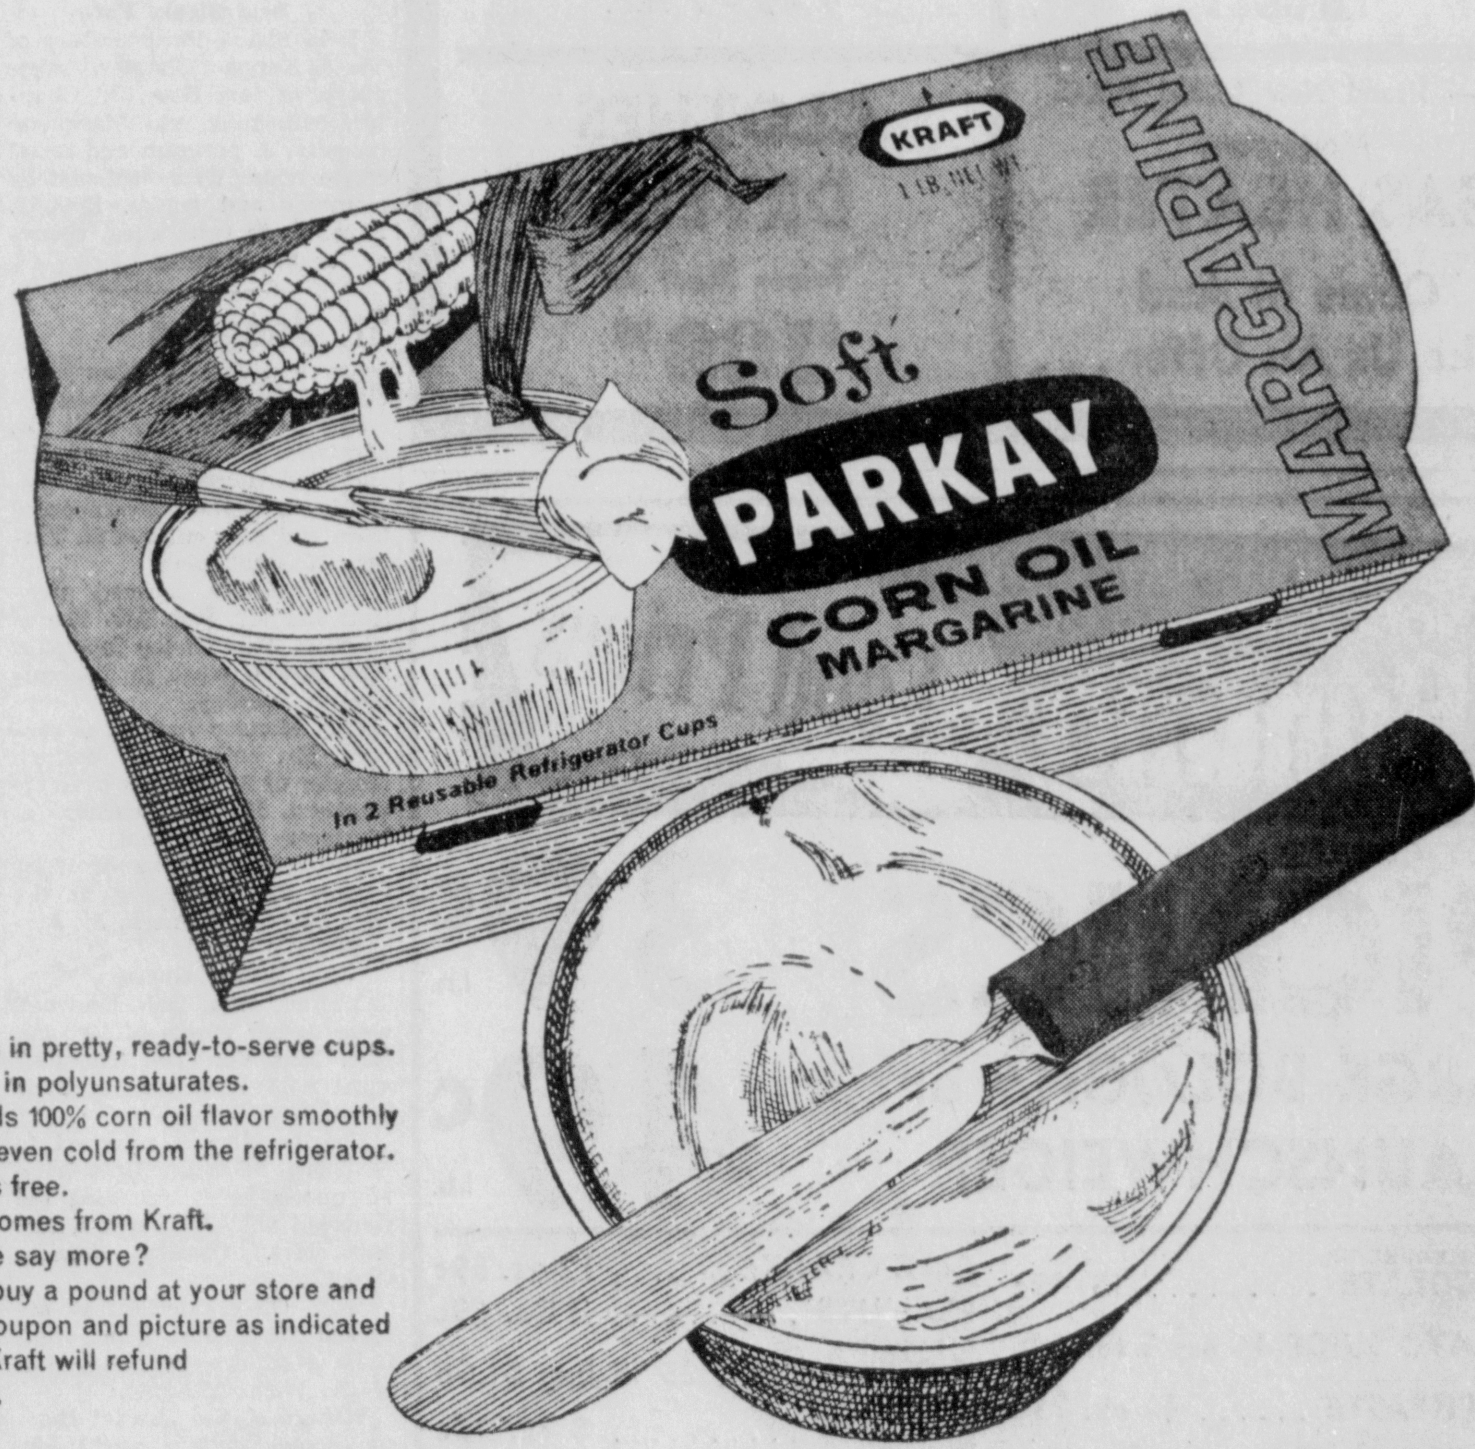

Bethel Fellowship of Bethel Baptist Church will meet Thursday at 7:45 p. m. in the Church. Hosts will be Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carlson and Mr. and Mrs. Otis Nelson.

Auto Deadlock

DETROIT (AP)—Deadlock at the bargaining table continued Tuesday as the United Auto Workers and General Motors attempted to settle a dispute which led to the walkout of 5,000 employees of the Fisher Body Fleetwood plant in Detroit. The strike, which began Nov. 14, has idled nearly 10,000 production workers.

Rich Vs. Poor

FULTON, Mo. (AP) — Thousands of persons are dying of starvation now and mass famine may pit rich nations against poor nations within 10 years, Lord C. P. Snow said Monday night.

Opening the 1968 John Findley Green lecture at Westminster College, Lord Snow spoke to about 1,400 persons.

The British scientist, novelist, essayist and parliamentarian said people have most confidence and now distrust the whole human race.

AN ENGLISH MODEL peeps through cascading osprey feathers as she shows a hat in the Millinery Guild's Spring collection at the Dorchester Hotel in London on Tuesday. In pale lime green, the hat consists of an organza pillow with the feathers falling from the crown. It is worn with a matching cape. The hat costs about $190 and the entire outfit sells for $600. Central WSCS Plans For "Holiday Festival"

At the Nov. 7 meeting of the Central United Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service final plans for the annual bazaar were completed. The "Holiday Festival" will be held in the education wing and fellowship hall on Nov. 23, and will again feature the Avenue of Shops and Salad Bar Luncheon.

Great Pumpkin

Doors of all shops will open at 11 a. m., and again this year young shoppers can enter the "Great Pumpkin" to do their special purchasing. Punch and cookies will be served and the secret gift wrapping service will be provided.

In the Heritage Room the shopper will find many antiques as well as many small unusual gifts for that "hard to please" person on the Christmas shopping list.

The Gourmet Cupboard will feature homemade pastry, cookies and breads, while the "Something Special" room will display handmade articles as well as Christmas decorations.

Style Show

The salad bar luncheon will be served from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m., in the Hospitality Room. This luncheon will feature many types of salads, Continuous musical entertainment as well as a high fashion knit style show have been added this year. The style show will feature knit garments and sweaters made by the models.

Mrs. Lloyd Phelan and Mrs. Richard Nelson are co-chairmen for the affair assisted by Mrs. Claude Bohn, Mrs. Burton Butler, Hospitality Room; Mrs. Clifford Frasher, Heritage Room; Mrs. Arthur Bolm, Something Special; Mrs. Clarence Moyle, Gourmet Cupboard; Mrs. Tom Gafner, Pumpkin Room; Mrs. Bert Bertollet, Luncheon; Mrs. Wayne Cooper, waitress, and Mrs. Robert Katarinec, publicity.

The public is invited to attend and special children's prices will be in effect for the luncheon and Pumpkin Room.

Mrs. Johnson To Make Farewell Journey Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lady Bird Johnson will make her final trip around the nation as First Lady later this month "to get reacquainted with the America behind the headlines."

Preliminary plans have the "farewell journey," as it was described by the White House, starting Nov. 22 in Washington at a ceremony for immigrants being sworn in as citizens.

Foreign journalists and other companions will join the First Lady on a four-day 6,000-mile trip to New Orleans; Cape Kennedy, Fla.; Denver, Colo., and then to Eureka, Calif., for dedication of the Redwood National Park.

See America

"It will be a wonderful way to get reacquainted with the America behind the headlines—and to introduce some foreign friends to our country," said Mrs. Johnson in a statement today.

The First Lady, a vigorous supporter of national beautification projects, has made about 40 trips during her five years in the White House, covering 100,000 miles and 125 cities and towns.

At this trip's first stop—New Orleans—Mrs. Johnson will attend the opening of a repertory theater and visit Xavier University of Louisiana, a participant in the Teacher Corps program. She and her party will then meet with astronauts in Cape Kennedy.

Health Center

She's to dedicate a new neighborhood health center in Denver and visit an existing center. She'll attend a premiere of an Office of Economic Opportunity

Schools Seek Superintendent

The Gladstone Board of Education has begun a search for a superintendent to replace the late Wallace Cameron.

To date, contacts have been made with the Northern Michigan University placement bureau and with the Bureau of Administration of Michigan State University. Meetings will be arranged as soon as possible.

According to Mrs. L. N. Empson, board of education trustee, the school board does not plan to make a hasty decision on a new superintendent for the district.

The Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate Board of Education and Intermediate District Supt. Walter McClintock have offered the Gladstone schools any assistance needed until a new superintendent can be hired.

GLADSTONE

A. H. Kohnert Dies At Home

Arthur Hans Kohnert, 64, Rte. 1, Gladstone, died at his home Thursday afternoon of a heart attack.

He was born Nov. 29, 1903, in Berlin, Germany and came to the United States when he was three years old. A resident of Chicago for the greater part of his life, he was employed in Chicago by the White House Trucking Co. He also worked for 11 years for the L&L Trucking Co., in Escanaba and for two years with the Olson Transportation Co., retiring six years ago.

Surviving are his wife, the former Frances Gordon of Springfield, Ill., one son, Gordon, and a daughter, Mrs. Telephor (Shirley) Frappier, both of whom live at Gladstone, Rte. 1, and eight grandchildren. There are also two brothers and two sisters. They are: Herta Kohnert, San Francisco; Katie

Central PTA Now At 198 Members

Central P. T. A. held their regular meeting at the James T. Jones School following the open house Monday evening. The membership committee announced a total of 198 members to date.

Mrs. Helen Van Donsel's morning kindergarten class had the highest percentage of parents enrolled and was the recipient of the membership award.

Mrs. Dale Osterberg, Mrs. Dan Evans and Mrs. Reuben Carlson were appointed to the nominating committee and room count was won by Miss Lois Borne's 3rd grade and Mr. William Holmstrom's 6th grade.

Mothers of the four kindergarten classes were hostesses for the evening. The next regular meeting will be held on Jan. 20.

Kohnert, Los Angeles; Otto Kohnert, Chicago, and Arnold Kohnert, Los Angeles.

Friends may call after 3 on Thursday afternoon at the Skradski Funeral Home. Funeral services will be held at 10 Friday morning at the funeral home chapel with burial in Fernwood Cemetery.

Library Offers Films, Records

The Gladstone School and Public Library offers a fine selection of films, phonograph records and monthly magazines in addition to their book service.

Each month about 24 films are available to library patrons. A list is posted in the library giving the title, description and time of the films. Films available this month include the "Story of Michelangelo", and film entitled, "Where Time is A River", dealing with the works of Rousseau, Gauguin, Chagall and Le'get. Many films pertaining to life in other countries, "Proline Canada", "Japan", "Scandinavia, Norway, Sweden and Denmark", are also listed.

Phonograph records are also available including classical, popular, show tunes, hymns, Christmas and children's records. "The Story of Great Music," and Time-Life Series, has also been purchased for use by library patrons.

Over 100 monthly magazines are received and offered through the library service. Such publications as Vogue, Investment Dealers' Digest, House and Garden, The Atlantic, American Aviation, American Artist, Time and Good Housekeeping may be borrowed each month.

Personals

FOB Detroit

By Jerry Green

DETROIT — It is with some relief that we note baseball is making progress. In a momentous decision, the general managers of the big league ball clubs have decreed their hired athletes must no longer look like hippies.

Good show, gentlemen.

This, of course, means that before they are permitted to bat next year Joe Pepitone must visit a barber and Bill Freehan must touch a razor to his sideburns.

It also means that baseball is attempting to freshen up its image of being the cleanest sport. Gee, the next thing you know, the GMs will outlaw the brushback pitch.

What was more enjoyable than those Saturday afternoons last summer when the Tigers were on TV and Freehan came to bat. The lense would zoom up close and you could see the burns running down his chops.

"Aha," you'd remark, "what's that mod character doing playing a sport as antiquated as baseball."

There's the rub, folks . . . the TV cameras. TV between innings sells razorblades and good grooming materials. Now how does it look when a batter goes up on camera with long sideburns or a goatee or hair hanging into the neck of his uniform shirt?

So TV says to the general managers, "your players ought to be clean shaven and well-groomed." And the general managers say to the ballplayers, "you ought to be clean shaven and well-groomed."

And then TV says, "that's fine, baseball, because if you didn't make sure your players were clean shaven and well-groomed we were going to cancel your act and replace you with Tiny Tim."

It is interesting to note that the general manager who made the announcement about no more shaggy ballplayers was Ed Short. Short had just had his duties lessened by his employer, the White Sox.

I am happy to learn that he is still doing something constructive. When last in the public eye, Mr. Short was telephoning Joe Cronin, the American League dictator, about Dick McAuliffe.

Yes, Cronin agreed, McAuliffe should be penalized for his engagement with Tommy John. He should be suspended for five days, Cronin decided in his first judgment of 1968. Yes, Cronin admitted, he indeed did have the umpire's report on the fight between McAuliffe and John. Al Salerno had sent it in via telegram immediately after the ballgame.

Then there was the second and last judgment of 1968 by Cronin. Salerno, along with Bill Valentine, was to be dismissed for what Cronin described as umpiring incompetence.

I do hope that Mr. Short now abides by the new ruling and makes Tommy John shave his elongated sideburns. John happens to be the closest thing the White Sox have to a hippie with Eddy Stanky no longer in their employ.

While on this subject, I have now heard Mickey Lolich sing and Denny McLain play the organ — in person. My lone comment is they are fortunate young men to have a sideline to fall back upon. Like pitching.

I have no comment whatsoever on the following: Lolich's business manager and attorney forbade his client to sign autographs on scraps of paper and notebooks during his Detroit nightclub stand. It seems there were pictures of Mickey available and he would sign only those, on the advice of counsel. The pictures cost $2.

Royals Choke Bullets' Rally To Pick Up Win

By The Associated Press

Baltimore's first-place hopes got a jolt, and Cincinnati's a boost . . . all because Oscar Robertson gave up being a playmaker for about three minutes.

Robertson picked the last three minutes of the game to concentrate on scoring Tuesday night and drilled in six points to choke off a Bullet rally and guide the Royals to a 126-115 National Basketball Association victory.

The triumph—the Royals' sixth in a row—snapped Baltimore's six-game winning streak and dropped the Bullets to third in the Eastern Division, a half game back of Cincinnati and .010 percentage points behind idle second-place Boston.

In other games, Chicago turned back San Diego 115-108, Milwaukee coasted past Seattle 127-114 and San Francisco defeated Atlanta 123-108.

In the two American Basketball Association games scheduled Los Angeles whipped Minnesota 123-116 in overtime and Denver defeated Oakland 134-127.

Robertson, who also had 18 assists, pumped in the six of his 29 points after the Bullets had forged from a 16-point deficit to a 107-106 lead with 3:44 left.

After that bit of work spirited the Royals to a 112-109 lead with 1:53 left. Adrian Smith put it out of doubt with 10 straight points—eight on free throws as Baltimore tried to gain possession.

Chicago survived a 40-point spree by rookie Elvin Hayes to make San Diego its sixth victim in 15 games.

The Bulls, paced by Clem Haskins 29 points, led by as much as 18 points in the first half before the Rockets trimmed it to 87-84 early in the last quarter.

However, Haskins and Bob Boozer teamed for a rally that produced a 100-90 lead with four minutes left.

Milwaukee almost blew a 21-point lead before spurning away to dump the SuperSonics.

The Bucks were in front 82-61 in the third quarter when Len Wilkens and Bob Rule, who each scored 17 in the last half, fired a spurge that narrowed the gap to 109-104.

However, four points by Guy Rodgers and a pair of free throws by Bob Weiss put Milwaukee back in control, 115-104.

Dave Gambee scored 29 for the Bucks. Rule had 28 and Wilkens 26 for Seattle.

San Francisco, in scoring 123 points against Atlanta, compiled its highest point output of the season while gaining its fourth victory in five home games.

Nate Thurmond provided the Warriors' impetus with 23 points, including 10 in the third quarter when San Francisco broke the game open. Lou Hudson kept the Hawks in contention with 21 points.

Substitute Quarterbacks Enjoying Great Season

NEW YORK (AP) — The success of Earl Morrall, Bill Nelsen and Virgil Carter may mark the 1968 season as the Year of the Backup Quarterback in the National Football League.

Baltimore picked up Morrall from the New York Giants during the training season as insurance for John Unitas' chronic tennis elbow. The Giants planned to go with Fran Tarkenton and Morrall, 34, who threw only 24 passes last season, was excess baggage.

Morrall found plenty of work with the Colts when Unitas' arm started acting up in the exhibition season.

The story of Morrall is the story of the Colts who are tied with Los Angeles in the Coastal Division with an 8-1 record. He has thrown 17 touchdown passes, the most in the league.

Nelsen's career at Pittsburgh was ruined by a series of knee injuries that twice required surgery. Coach Bill Austin finally decided to go with Kent Nix and shipped Nelsen off to Cleveland for Dick Shiner. Incidentally, NAHMA — An unusual situation has not stopped workouts by the Big Bay de Noc Black Bears in preparation for their 1968 basketball season opener at home against the Eben Eagles on November 22.

The players on the Black Bears team go to school in Nahma, but must travel each day to Garden for practice. All of the school's home games will also be played in Garden.

"This has set our practice schedule back a great deal, but the attitude the boys have displayed in practice will overcome this hardship," commented Dave Pelletier, Big Bay basketball coach.

Four seniors, six juniors, one sophomore and two freshmen give the Black Bears a relatively young ball club. Only four lettermen from last year's team, which posted a 13-7 record, are back this season. Senior letterman Dave Feathers heads the list which also includes juniors Herb Pomeroy, Bill Hartman and John Lewandowski.

Also working out with the Black Bears for the coming season are seniors Charlie Thelander, Ernie Hardwick and Mark Martin; juniors Louie Miller, Wayne Clement and Mike Hermes; sophomore Dave Hardwick and freshmen Kim Hartman and Dennis Benard.

Shiner now is the No. 1 passer for the Steelers.

When the Browns faltered in early season, losing two of their first three games, Blanton Collier benched Frank Ryan his veteran passer, and switched to Nelsen. The results have been remarkable. Cleveland has won its last four and has opened up a half game lead over St. Louis in the Century Division.

Carter is the real surprise of the bunch. After setting all kinds of college records at Brigham Young he spent all of the 1967 season on the taxi squad with the Chicago Bears. Only after injuries cut down Jack Concannon and Rudy Bukich, did the Bears put Carter on the active list. Under his direction the Bears have won four in a row and are tied with Minnesota for the lead in the Central Division.

Although Carter is way down on the list of top passers, 14th in the rankings, and has thrown only four touchdown passes, he has been able to pull the Bears together.

Several other backup passers have moved front and center because of injuries to the No. 1 men. Shiner has taken over at Pittsburgh and the Steelers have shown new punch. Bob Berry became the starter at Atlanta in the new regime of Norm Van Brocklin after Randy Johnson was injured.

ROCK — The Rock Little Giants, under new coach Kenneth Dean, will be out to try and improve on last year's 4-14 record when they open their season this Friday night against Trenary.

Dean, a 1968 graduate of Northern Michigan University, faces a rebuilding season with only three lettermen returning from last year's squad. He has ten juniors on this season's team and one sophomore, Tim Connors, who is pressing everyone for a starting assignment.

Senior letterman Rodney Kivioja, a 6-foot, 140-pound guard heads the list of returnees which also includes Tom Lipkens and Larry Koski, both juniors.

In talking about the coming season, Dean said, "With the loss of seven seniors, which included three starters, I must reserve judgment of our team's capabilities until we face live competition. I feel that if we, as a team, can combine desire and confidence with ability and practice we will have a respected team and may even surprise a few people this season."

Included on the Little Giants' 18-game schedule are 12 Central Conference games, three Christmas tournament games and outside games with Champion and Watersmeet.

The Rock schedule:

Gibson Caps Sweep Of Coveted Prizes

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Gibson, the St. Louis Cardinals' brilliant right-hander, was named the National League's Most Valuable Player today, capping an unprecedented pitchers' sweep of baseball's most coveted prizes.

Gibson, a 22-game winner whose 1.12 earned run average was the lowest in league history, beat out batting champ Pete Rose of Cincinnati in a relatively close contest for MVP honors after capturing the NL Cy Young Award as the unanimous choice of the voting members of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The double conquest by the 33-year-old St. Louis fireballer, after Detroit ace Denny McLain took the American League MVP and Cy Young awards, marks the first time two hurlers have divided all four trophies. The writers picked one Cy Young winner from 1956 to 1966, then switched to one award for each league in 1967.

In Matsuyama, Japan, where the Cardinals were scheduled to play a local team on their exhibition tour, Gibson appeared surprised when told of his selection.

"You're kidding," he said, then paused a few seconds to let the news sink in and added:

"It's great. It's just great, because pitchers don't usually win MVP awards. I've got to thank everyone on the team. The whole team helped me have a good year."

Gibson, who pitched 13 shutouts in leading the Cardinals to their second consecutive pennant, succeeds teammate Orlando Cepeda as the NL MVP. He is the third St. Louis player in five years to earn the award, Ken Boyer having been selected in 1964.

Cepeda, the only unanimous selection for MVP in National League history, did not receive a single vote this year.

Gibson, a strapping 6-foot-2 veteran of nine seasons with the Cardinals, is the ninth pitcher-MVP since the inception of the award in 1931. Until this year, only Don Newcombe, in 1956, and Sandy Koufax, in 1963, had won both the Cy Young—for pitchers only—and MVP awards.

In the Cy Young voting, Gib-

son received all 20 first places from the BBWA panel—two writers from each city. He got 14 firsts in the MVP balloting, Rose picking up the other six, and outpointed the hustling Cincinnati outfielder 242-205.

The writers voted for 10 places, with a first worth 14 points, a second, 9 points, a third, 8, and on down to 1 point for 10th.

Rose, who nipped Pittsburgh's Matty Alou for the batting title, .335 to .332, by going 7-for-15 in his last three games, was no lower than fourth on all 20 ballots. Gibson received one seventh-place vote.

Willie McCovey, San Francisco's slugging first baseman, finished third with 135 points. Curt Flood, the Cardinals' dandy center fielder, was fourth with 116 and Juan Marichal, the Giants' pitching star, was fifth with 93. Gibson, Rose, McCovey and Marichal were the only players among 26 receiving votes who were named on every ballot.

Left fielder Lou Brock and third baseman Mike Shannon of the Cardinals were sixth and seventh, respectively, while pitcher Nelson Briles and shortstop Dal Maxvill tied for 20th, giving the NL champs six vote-getters in all.

Gibson won 15 straight games during the 1968 season, a club record, and reeled off a scoreless streak of 47 innings. He completed 28 of his 34 starts and finished with a 22-9 record. His 1.12 ERA broke the mark of 1.22 set in 1915 by Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Philadelphia Phillies.

The MVP balloting was completed before the World Series, in which Gibson beat the Tigers twice before bowing to southpaw Mickey Lolich in the seventh and deciding game.

Liston Continues Boxing Comeback

By The Associated Press

Heavyweights held the boxing spotlight on Tuesday.

Sonny Liston, the former world heavyweight champ, continued his comeback by knocking out Roger Rischer of Fort Worth, Tex., in the third round at Pittsburgh. Liston, now fighting out of Las Vegas, Nev., weighed 219, Rischer 200.

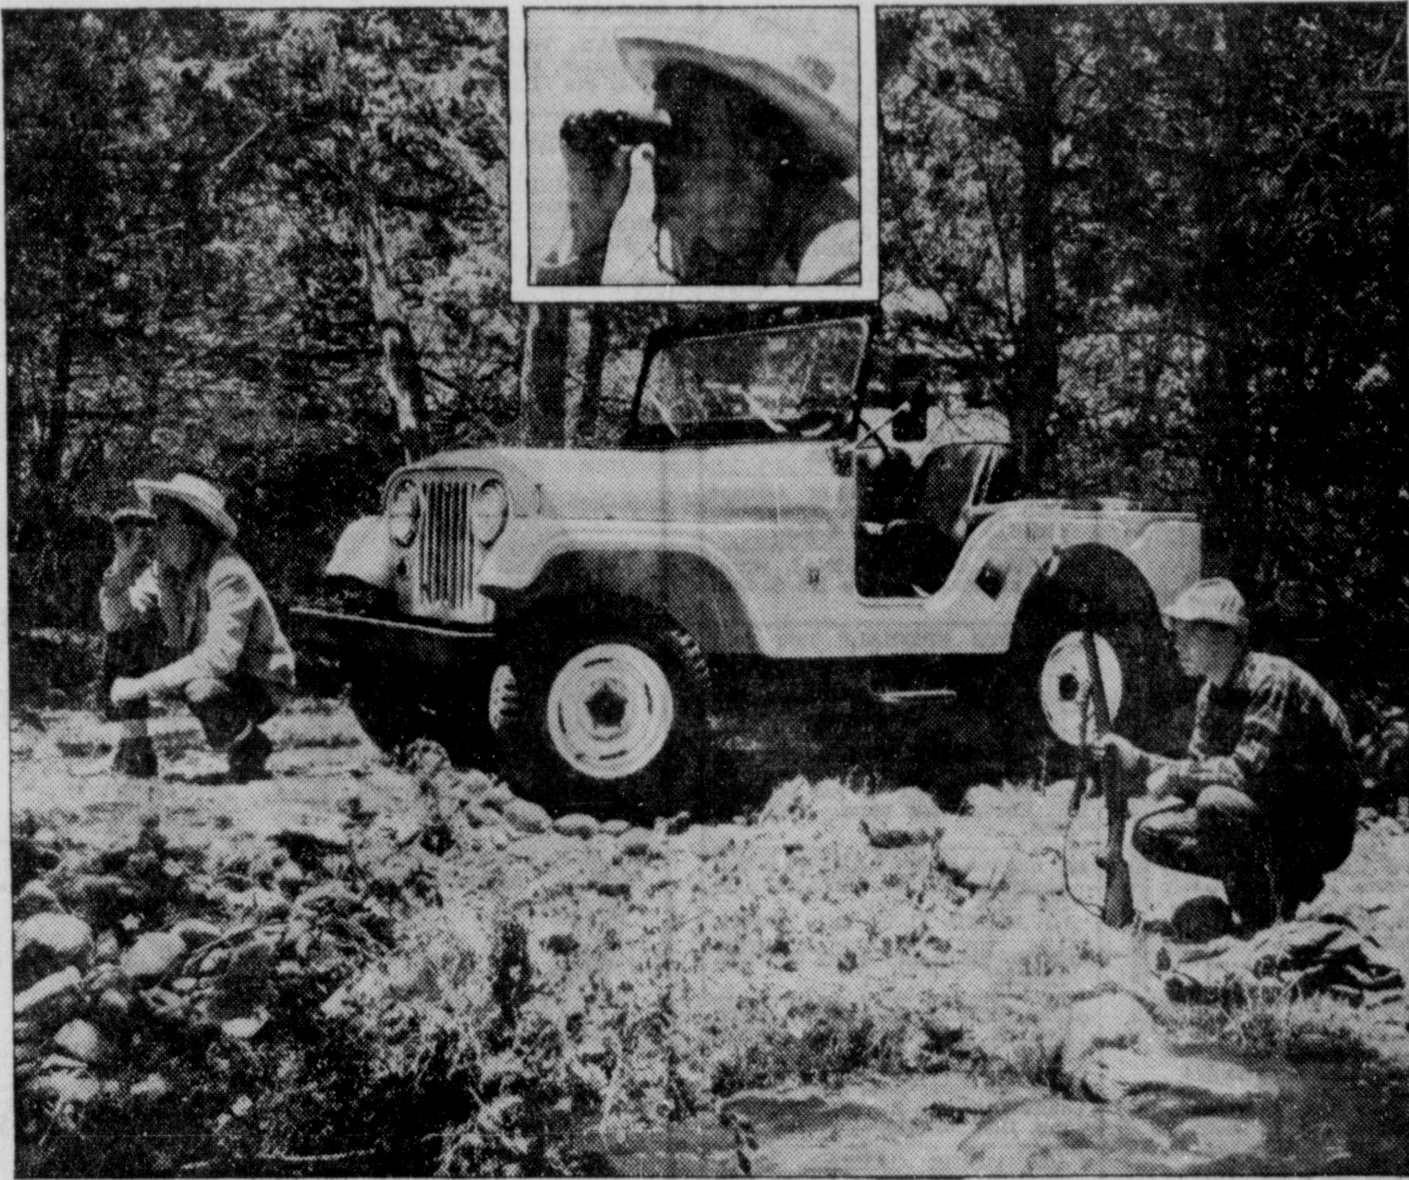

In Toronto, George Chuvalo stopped Dante Cane of Italy in the seventh round. The Canadian heavyweight champ weighed 208, Cane 223.

Thad Spencer of San Francisco was stopped in the sixth round in London, England, by Britain's Billy Walker. Spencer, once a contender for the world title, said later he intended to "take a year off."

Governors Sign Sister-State Pact

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Kinichiro Nozaki of Japan's Shiga prefectural government arrived in Lansing Tuesday to join Gov. George Romney in signing a sister-state agreement.

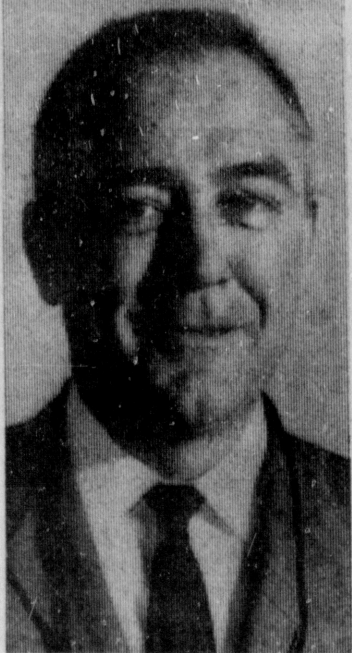

With Nozaki in the three-man party were Keiichi Kitagawa, Shiga, prefecture's (state's) chief water administrator, and Kentaro Horibe, reporter for a Shiga daily newspaper.

The three planned to visit briefly today with Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh in his offices. They also were to tour the campus of Michigan State University, where they are staying, and several other places of interest.

Thursday Govs. Nozaki and Romney are to sign the agreement aimed at providing "deeper mutual understanding" between their two governments.

The document is expected to pave the way for a free exchange of ideas between Michigan and Shiga on cultural, economic and social matters of mutual concern.

The agreement was worked out after two Shiga officials visited Lansing earlier this year and state conservation director Ralph MacMullan traveled to Shiga.

EMIL LOCKWOOD of St. Louis, Mich., majority leader of the Michigan State Senate has been mentioned as one of the ranking Michigan politicians who could be considered for a Washington job under the Nixon administration. No Percussionists

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — The 1968 debut of the University of Oklahoma Chamber Orchestra lasted about 30 minutes Monday night. Three percussionists failed to show up.

The rest of the orchestra tried to carry on, but the main piece, "The Chinese Flute" by Toch, hinged on the percussionists. After about 30 minutes, the orchestra gave up and went home. So did the 200 or so music lovers who came to hear the concert.

Conductor Donn Mills said the percussionists simply "forgot the concert was tonight."

Statistics Pointing To Pill: Dr. Markush

DETROIT (AP) — Deaths among American women between the ages of 20 and 44 from blood clots in the veins have risen as much as 12 per cent a year since birth control pills became available, a researcher said in Detroit Tuesday.

But, said Dr. Robert E. Markush, there's no real way of deciding whether anything you see in those statistics was caused by the pill.

Markush, deputy chief of the epidemiology branch of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness, said the deaths from thromboembolism have risen an average of 3 to 12 per cent a year since 1962.

Markush delivered his results in a paper before the American Public Health Association convention.

"It adds a little more suspicion that something is going on—that there are dangers involved in using the pill," said Markush.

The researcher said the study was the first of its kind in the United States, and confirmed an earlier study made in Great Britain.

was caused by oral contraceptives, he noted there is an "association" between the pill and "an increase in mortality rates from the diseases of the veins and lodges in the lungs. Markush said there was no similar increase in fatal thromboembolisms among men during the period since 1962. The mortality rate for women as a result of the vein disease has risen from 20 per 100,000 in 1962 to 64 per 100,000, he said.

Party Labels Are Misleading

NEW YORK (AP) — Based on performance rather than membership, the tags on the political parties today may be as inappropriate as spinach labels on cans of corn.

This may be temporary, but it will take a couple of years to prove it.

Ingredients of the Republicans, according to the stereotype, include a big slice of business interest. The Democrats, based on popular attitudes, seem to be a stew of smaller groups and individuals.

But in recent years the businessman, the big one especially, has fared better under the Democrats than under the Republicans.

Despite business complacency during the Dwight D. Eisenhower years, the most recent Republican administration, the economy was marked by only a slow increase in profits, a low growth rate and much inflation.

Under John F. Kennedy and into the first part of the Johnson administration, despite much business criticism, the nation had little inflation. And throughout both administrations the growth rate was strong and corporate profits good.

These events might represent only an accident of history, but they could also have caused some businessmen to ponder over their traditional and ideological allegiance to Republicanism.

Hubert H. Humphrey had considerable business support in his presidential effort, and it seemed most noticeable in the campaign's final days. Traditional thinking would have assumed this support belonged to Richard M. Nixon.

In the stock market also there was little enthusiasm evident the day after Nixon's victory. Prices declined, in fact, although it was explained by analysts that they had risen earlier in expectation of the news. Wall Street places its bets on the future rather than the present or past.

The merging of Republican-Democrat attitudes regarding the operation of the economy into a great consensus is going to help none in applying the old labels. In basic economic philosophy the differences now are of method rather than goal.

Vietnam Claims 5 Michigan Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five Michigan men were listed among 67 servicemen the Defense Department Tuesday reported as killed in action in Viet Nam.

They were:

Spec. 5 Mark H. Pietrzyk, husband of Mrs. Irene A. Pietrzyk of Detroit and Pfc. John E. Lutze, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry D. McFarlin of Flint. Both men were in the Army.

The other three, all Marines, were 2nd Lt. Thomas J. Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edsell S. Evans of Riverview; S. Sgt. Rodney S. Kisha husband of Mrs. Bonnie R. Kisha of Mt. Clemens, and Cpl. Gerald C. Mullin, husband of Mrs. Gerald C. Mullin, of Mt. Clemens.

Programming

NEW YORK (AP) — The number of radio stations in the United States which aim at their programming at Negroes has increased to 108 from 50 in 1960, according to Bernard Howard & Co., a New York company that sells advertising for 35 such stations.

Dingell Calls For Stricter Controls Over Gas Games

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., called anew Tuesday for stricter government regulations of gas company promotional games. He said if irregularities persist he would seek to prohibit them entirely.

"We are fully aware of the effort within the game industry, by six of the leading producers of promotional games, to develop industry guidelines or standards for the conduct of games," he told a news conference.

"Self-regulation is not adequate in our judgment. I personally favor prohibition of games," said Dingell, chairman of the subcommittee on regulatory agencies of the House Small Business Committee.

"We believe that, if the games are to be continued, they must be conducted under Federal Trade Commission regulations, with surveillance and rigid production and security precautions, that minimize the opportunity for mistakes, abuses and deception."

Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., senior GOP member of the subcommittee, agreed with Dingell that if the FTC does not provide stricter regulation of the games, the only alternative is legislation prohibiting their use.

Priest Dies Eve Of Golden Jubilee

LAINGSBURG (AP) — A funeral Mass will be sung Wednesday for Rev. John E. Martin, who died Saturday night only a few hours before a planned celebration of his 50th anniversary in the priesthood.

The Mass will be celebrated in St. Isidore's Church, of which he was pastor for 24 years ago before his retirement two years ago. Since then, he had lived close to his former church. His Golden Jubilee Mass was to have been celebrated in the same church Sunday.
